LABOR LEADER SAYS BRITISH ON NEW PLANE

Mr. Ramsay MacDonald in Quebec Interview, Says Level of Life for Many Raised

SURMERGED TENTH IS DISAPPEARING

Former Premier Takes Emphatic Stand Against Tariff Protection — Leader Discusses Followers

By R. E. KNOWLES
(Copyright, 1928, by The North American Newspaper Alliance)
QUEBEC, Aug. 6.—I have just concluded something more than an hour in personal and exclusive interview with the Right Hon. Ramsay MacDonald, ex-Prime Minister of Great Britain.

Mr. MacDonald is graying fast, but his abundant locks are curly, almost boyishly so, and hang in careless profusion about his shapely head. His face is handsome, ascetic, grave, with eyes of almost morbid tenderness and a mouth as sensitive as a woman's. His handshake has not loosened or become artificial with the busy political years. It is strong, sincere, and firm.

"Mr. MacDonald," I began as I settled myself down in his spacious parlor at the Chateau Frontenac, "is it true, as many say, that your chief foes are of your own household?"

"What do you mean?" retorted the ex-premier.

"This—that the rank and file of the Socialist Party are so extreme and unreasonable, so radical and fractious, that they make your life long struggle to appease them on the one hand and still to maintain the public confidence on the other."

"That is all rubbish," was the unequivocal reply, "and is trumped up for the interest of what are called the 'classes'."

"What do you think of the recent railwaymen's voluntary consent to reduced wages?"

"It's sad. But it's glorious. It tells with a thousand tongues the reasonableness of the labor classes when properly appealed to. And it speaks volumes for my old colleague, Mr. J. H. Thomas. He is the greatest trade union leader in the world."

TARIFF PROTECTION

"Does the Labor Party grow any more kindly toward protection?"

"Never. We stand with faces of flint against protection. It is no good. And Winston Churchill holds the same view."

North of England Portrays History in Great Pageant

CARLISLE, England, Aug. 6.—The history of England's north country was portrayed here today by 4,000 pageant performers. Many thousands of visitors were present.

There was an orchestra of 100 and a chorus of 500 voices. Nine episodes covered the history of Carlisle from A.D. 1221 to the present day.

Peace in Serbia Hangs on Life of Leader of Croats

VIENNA, Aug. 6.—Dispatches from Zagreb tonight said an unfounded rumor that Stefan Raditch, Croatian Peasant Party leader, had died from the wounds received in the shooting affray in Parliament, had drawn thousands of excited townsfolk to his villa.

Hundreds of persons remained outside their leader's home day and night awaiting reports from the sick bed, as they have during the last five days. Specialists have been summoned from Vienna and Munich.

It is reported the Belgrade Government has drafted several Serbian regiments for duty at Zagreb to prevent trouble should Raditch die. The political murder of an editor in Belgrade yesterday taken as an indication of the high feeling now running throughout Yugoslavia.

Pasteurization Held Essential To All Dairying

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—"Pasteurization is one of the essential processes throughout the whole phase of dairying," declared Henry Rive, dairy commissioner of British Columbia, when he outlined conditions pertaining to the manufacture of dairy products at the milk investigation this afternoon.

CAR PLUNGES INTO RIVER; GAS EXPLODES

Saanich Police Search Colquitz Stream for Driver or Other Occupants — No Trace Found

STOLEN MACHINE IS TOTAL WRECK

Occupants of a touring car, number 13-857, which crashed through the barrier and dropped over the embankment into the Colquitz River, were sent out. When they escaped are lying probably dead or seriously injured on the bank, or are lost in the river.

At 11 o'clock last night Chief of Police Allen R. Macdonald received a call stating that an automobile had crashed over the embankment of the Colquitz River, near Burrard Road, and that the gasoline tank had exploded and the car had caught fire.

Constable Hayden was despatched to the scene and the fire engines also were sent out. When they arrived the car was a mass of flames. When the fire was extinguished it was found that the car was a total wreck, and past salvaging.

CAPTAIN COURTNEY REACHES NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Captain Frank T. Courtney and three companions with whom he was saved after he had landed in the water on an attempted flight to Newfoundland from the Azores, arrived by boat today and was officially welcomed at the city hall.

Courtney and his three companions were taken from the liner Montevideo, the boat that saved them from the ocean, at quarantine, and brought to the battery on the city hall.

FOUND SHOT

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—Found lying in a room at 108 Forty-Third Avenue West, this afternoon, with a bullet wound in his temple, John Cox, who lived at that address with his sister and brother-in-law, was taken to a hospital and died tonight.

WOULD REMAKE HIS HOME TOWN

Native of Pugwash, Nova Scotia, Now Millionaire, Proposes to Pay Cost of Work

CLEVELAND, Aug. 6.—Cyrus S. Eaton, Cleveland millionaire banker, utilities operator and more recently a prominent figure in the steel industry, intends to remake his home town in Nova Scotia.

Eaton was born in 1883 at Pugwash, a quiet little village of 750 persons, on the Nova Scotia coast. He came to Cleveland at the age of nineteen and became absorbed in building up a fortune in banking and public utilities. A short time ago Eaton went back to Pugwash for a visit and now proposes to pay for the cost of making the village more attractive, especially to tourists. He suggests straightening out the main street, laying out a little park and building the town's first hotel.

FALLEN PIPE MAKES FATAL TRAIN WRECK

Section of Pipe Falls From Freight Car on Track — Fast Passenger Trains Are Derailed by It

ENGINE SLASHES PULLMAN COACHES

At Least Eight Persons Are Killed and Two Hundred Injured on Illinois Central Railway

MOUNDS, Ill., Aug. 6.—A large sewer pipe, which fell from a freight train, caused derailment of two fast Illinois Central passenger trains, one mile north of here today, resulting in the death of at least eight persons and injury of approximately 200 others.

Fifty-nine of the injured were taken to a Cairo hospital, where two are expected to die.

The known dead are: L. A. Drennan, forty, of Mattoon, Ill., an express messenger; Mrs. Bud Snider and Joe Sedwick, both of West Orange, N.J., vaudeville actors; William Douglas, negro train porter, and four unidentified negro women. Drennan and one negro woman were killed outright. The others died en route or after they reached Cairo.

Search of the wreckage continued late today, and workers believed one or two additional bodies might be found.

STOPPED TOO LATE

The trains derailed were No. 3, southbound, Chicago to New Orleans, Limited, and No. 16, northbound, Memphis to St. Louis train, the Chickasaw.

Ed Whalen, conductor of the Chickasaw, said they had been warned of the sewer pipe, but struck it 2,000 feet sooner than expected. The pilot was torn loose and the train came to a stop with a jolt.

The pipe was hurled against the southbound train and threw it out of line.

"Half a minute later," he said, "No. 3 came roaring down the track at sixty miles an hour. The engine was derailed and ploughed into the pullman of No. 16, ripping through the entire side of a number of cars, where passengers were sleeping. Ten cars of No. 3 and seven of No. 16 were derailed."

ROBBER SHOT BY CONSTABLE

MAN WITH WOMAN PARTNER RAIDS LIQUOR STORE AT GREENWOOD, B.C.

Hill by Bell's While Escaping—Taken to Hospital in Washington Town

GRAND FORKS, B.C., Aug. 6.—Willis Judd, a hospital at Republic, Wash., today, fatally wounded, as the result of a gun fight at Greenwood early this morning, when he and a woman partner, Mary Lee, had allegedly burglarized the Government liquor store and were escaping with seven cases of liquor. Constable Powers, of the provincial police, arrived on the scene in time to put a bullet into the fleeing man. Fearing detection, the liquor was thrown from the car seven miles from Greenwood.

Judd was so seriously wounded when Republic was reached that his partner took him to the hospital in that city and there police fatally shot him.

Police are of the opinion that they were responsible for a burglary early in the night at Republic and were safe blowing. Great Northern depots at Colville and Grand Forks.

GIRL ARRESTED

REPUBLIC, Wash., Aug. 6.—Serious wounds by Canadian provincial police, Willis Judd, twenty-eight, was brought here today by Muriel Lee, quarter-breed Indian girl, who helped him elude officers, they said.

George Tuttle, customs collector of Danville, with two border patrolmen, arrested the girl for running the line, then turned her over to Canadian officials, who charged that she and Judd held up the Government liquor store at Greenwood.

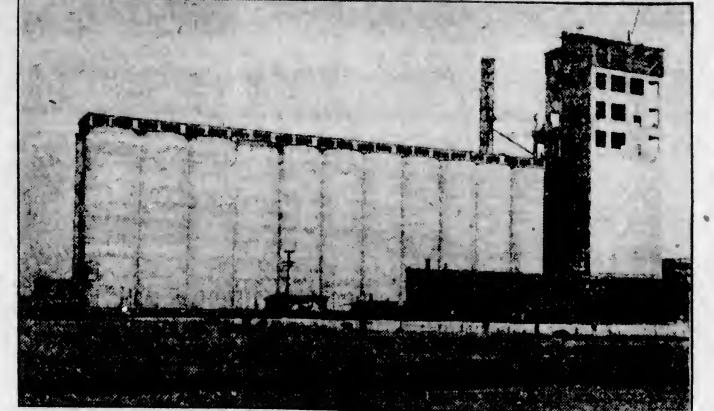

Judd, who was shot through the abdomen as police attempted to halt his car, underwent an operation here today. He is a resident of Republic. An unknown man, whom officers said was the third member of the alleged hold-up gang, escaped.

The Canadian Government liquor store at Osoyoos, B.C., was held up about one month ago, and authorities believed that the same parties may have been implicated.

Ships Muster at Seattle for Big Naval Festival

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Close to 35,000 men, the greatest naval force mustered here, were guests of Seattle today, the opening day of Fleet Week.

Grain Elevator to Be Ready Next Month

THE Panama-Pacific Grain Terminals, Limited, elevator at Ogden Point piers resounds with the echo of many hammers as workmen tear down the wooden framework. All the concrete and steel work is finished, the next step being the installation of machinery in the 212-foot-high workhouse, situated at the seaward end of the structure. It is expected that the elevator will be in operation on September 1. It will be run for a month by Smith Brothers & Wilson for final adjustments before being turned over to the proprietors.

BRIGANDS MAY PREVENT POLL OF ELECTORS

Election in Greek Constituency May Be Deferred—Two Candidates Held for Ransom

MINISTRY AGREES TO FURNISH MONEY

ATHENS, Aug. 6.—Brigands who captured two candidates for parliament for whose ransom the Government has agreed to advance large sums, let the day pass without indicating where the money can be paid. Absence of word from the hand added to the political anxiety of officials who desire to have the men released before the voting next Friday, so as to avoid postponement of balloting in the Epirus district.

Eleutherios Venizelos, Prime Minister, has publicly declared the determination of his Government to stamp out brigandage. The answer of the outlaw came in a report from Janina today telling of the kidnapping of a lawyer named Giras. This took place in the same neighborhood as the capturing of the two politicians.

COMPARATIVE VALUES

The ransom demanded for the lawyer is one million drachmas ($13,000). This is one-fifth of the amount asked for the release of the two parliamentary candidates.

The political prisoners are Constantino Melas, and M. Milanos, former Under-Secretary of Finance, who were young in Canada are.

Our country was built up generations ago and we have still the determination and the will-power to carry on the work of reorganization that will make the Mother Country as conspicuous in the eyes of the world in the future as ever it has been in the past," said Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier of Great Britain, in addressing the Canadian Club here today.

BRITISH QUOTAS QUICKLY FILLED

More Than Five Thousand Have Applied for Work in Prairie Harvest—Ottawa's Stand

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Excellent response is being made to the call for 10,000 men and women for the harvest, under the terms agreed upon between the Canadian and British Governments, it was officially stated today, especially quickly filling up the quotas.

Totals of recruits wired to London today: South Wales, 1,500; Bristol, 1,000; Manchester, 2,000; Edinburgh, 1,000. This leaves 4,500 or less than half to come. The last day of sailing is fixed at August 18. If the quota is "over subscribed," as an official of the overseas settlement department expressed it, "we will give preference to the districts suffering from industrial depression."

They could be shown the Plains of Abraham, could be told of the name of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other side of a monument, not only due to the relations of the two men, but due to the political sagacity which brought peace after war, peace after the differences of two nations.

"Canada stands up as the greatest example in the world of how minorities and majorities may stand together without losing their individuality."

Mr. MacDonald turned to imperial unity. Trade alone was not sufficient to hold the bonds of empire, he said. What was needed was a heartfelt satisfaction in co-operation, pride in common service and comfort in common alliance.

The British Empire stood for freedom for the open road where men and women could go in economic freedom, masters of themselves, in harmony not only with the world, but in something, inspiring harmony with time and eternity.

WEEK-END ACCIDENTS

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Eleven Washington residents were killed, two were injured and four narrowly escaped death in accidents over the week-end.

Boy Empties Oil Tank Truck Upon Vancouver Street

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—A flood of oil poured at Lovers Lane and Kingsway this afternoon, but there was no gusher.

A boy fooling with the cock of an oil tank truck turned on the flow, and the result was a flooded street. Most of the truckload emptied before the driver discovered what was happening. Police and fire departments were informed and a fire truck was despatched to stand by while the danger of fire passed.

LOGS CRUSH MAN

MERRITT, B.C., Aug. 6.—While unloading logs at the mills of McGowan & Sons, at Canford, Ernest McGowan, son of ex-Alberta Premier McGowan, was crushed by a log.

Several logs passed over his body, crushing one hand, injuring one eye and battering and bruising him from head to foot.

GREATNESS OF BRITAIN YOUNG

FORMER LABOR PREMIER TELLS MONTREAL CANADIAN CLUB OF OUTLOOK

Nation Faces Present Problems With Stout Heart of Yore—Imperial Unity

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—"The Mother Country is going through a distress, make no mistake about that, but she is looking with a stout heart to the future. Distressful as we have been, we are as buoyant as you in Canada are. Our country was built up generations ago and we have still the determination and the will-power to carry on the work of reorganization that will make the Mother Country as conspicuous in the eyes of the world in the future as ever it has been in the past," said Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, former Premier of Great Britain, in addressing the Canadian Club here today.

Mr. MacDonald referred to the so-called "dole." A long wrong idea of the dole was common on this side, he said. "No dole is paid in Great Britain." It was the result of insurance, he said. Just as a man by paying premiums was entitled to draw from his savings or to leave his estate to his family, so was the workman entitled to a part, surpluses piled up by his own fees.

CANADA'S STATESMANSHIP

Mr. MacDonald paid tribute to Senator Dandurand, leader of the Liberal party in the Senate. Mr. Dandurand had been Mr. MacDonald's colleague, companion and friend in 1924 when the Labor leader had attended sessions at Geneva as British Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs. Senator Dandurand could tell the speaker said, that the cloud over Europe that, more than anything else, threatened peace was the problem of minorities. "I wish," he said, "that some public body in Canada, the Canadian Club or others, would invite representatives of the nations to come here. They could be shown the Plains of Abraham, could be told of the name of Wolfe on one side and Montcalm on the other side of a monument, not only due to the relations of the two men, but due to the political sagacity which brought peace after war, peace after the differences of two nations."

"Canada stands up as the greatest example in the world of how minorities and majorities may stand together without losing their individuality."

Mr. MacDonald turned to imperial unity. Trade alone was not sufficient to hold the bonds of empire, he said. What was needed was a heartfelt satisfaction in co-operation, pride in common service and comfort in common alliance.

HUGE ELEVATOR NEARLY READY

Panama-Pacific Grain Terminals' Structure at Ogden Point to Be in Operation About September 1

GREATEST HEIGHT IS NOW 212 FEET

VICTORIA, Aug. 6.—The forest fire situation in the Southern Interior is not serious, and recent rains have aided a great deal. A fire near Trail, but back in the hills, which had been sought for five days by rangers on foot, was today spotted by the Dominion Airways plane, operated here under contract by the Government. The fire was circled and size noted. Its exact location was worked out on a map which was dropped to the fire ranger in a nearby village from the air.

CAR TURNS TURTLE

CAMPBELLTON, N.B., Aug. 6.—Mrs. Theobald Legacy, of Sellaireville, died in hospital here today from injuries sustained Sunday when a car, containing ten people, turned turtle on a road near Enfield, N.B. The fatality is the third from the accident, Theobald Legacy, whose wife died today, and Justin Wall, of Campbellton, being instantly killed.

CORK LEG SAVES MAN OVERBOARD

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6.—How a cork leg kept Bruce McQuillen, forty-three-year-old war veteran, afloat after an alleged leap in mid-ocean from the Cunard liner Samaria, was learned today by friends of McQuillen and his father, Dr. Daniel Neal McQuillen, prominent Philadelphia dentist.

McQuillen, who was on his way to Europe with his father and a party of friends, was rescued when a boat was lowered from the side of the liner. On his removal to the hospital of the ship, he slashed his wrist.

Because of his condition the party abandoned their proposed European tour and remained aboard the Samaria for the return voyage.

According to Dr. McQuillen, his son has been despondent because of wounds received during the war.

DUNCAN REPORT NOT FULFILLED

Hon. R. B. Bennett Says Proper Regard Not Paid by Government to Fishing Industry

ST. PETERS, N.S., Aug. 6.—Standing on the shore of the Atlantic, Hon. R. B. Bennett, here this evening delivered the final speech in Cape Breton of his Summer speaking tour. The Conservative leader emphasized the need of encouragement to the fishing industry of the Maritime provinces and the necessity for better transportation facilities on the Island.

"I do not want to discuss the report of the royal commission on fisheries," he declared, "in any way that might prejudice the position of the Government. I do not want them to say when Parliament meets that I am making it difficult for them to assist the fishing industry. But when that time comes, if they will not do anything for the fishermen of the Maritime Provinces, they will hear from us."

Mr. Bennett questioned if a proper regard had been paid to the fisheries of the Duncan report respecting fisheries.

"It is true," he remarked, "they appointed a commission which made a report which is being slept on."

"The people of Western Canada, Mr. Bennett proceeded, were never more anxious to help the East than they are today. They realize these fisheries are national assets, just as the plains of the West belong to all the people of Canada."

Fragments of Wrecked Vessel Thrown on Bay Island Shore, More Than Half Mile Away—Crew Escape by Jumping Into Water Before Fire Reaches Explosive

Cabin Blown Sixty-Five Feet in Air Lands on Top of Bluff Above Beach

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 6.—An explosion of twelve tons of powder aboard the steamer La Blanca, in the Narrows, just west of Tacoma, this evening shattered windows in this city, disrupted telephone service and started a fire in the woods near where the explosion occurred. The crew of the steamer escaped by jumping overboard and swimming ashore. No loss of life has been reported.

B.C. Harvesters Start Wednesday For Wheat Lands

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—Tomorrow Dominion employment officials at Vancouver and New Westminster will issue certificates to men possessing letters insuring their employment on the Prairies.

In view of the heavy demand from Alberta for harvest laborers, a first contingent of British Columbia men is expected to be large. They will leave for the Prairies on Wednesday and Thursday.

Plane Finds Fire Vainly Sought by Rangers for Days

NELSON, B.C., Aug. 6.—The forest fire situation in the Southern Interior is not serious, and recent rains have aided a great deal. A fire near Trail, but back in the hills, which had been sought for five days by rangers on foot, was today spotted by the Dominion Airways plane, operated here under contract by the Government. The fire was circled and size noted. Its exact location was worked out on a map which was dropped to the fire ranger in a nearby village from the air.

Powell River GREETED LEADER

Hon. S. F. Tolmie Attends Reception in Company With General A. D. McRae, M.P., at Paper Town

WILL OPEN TWO SHOWS THIS WEEK

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, leader of the Conservative party in British Columbia, arrived here yesterday morning, accompanied by Mrs. Tolmie, after a visit to Powell River, where he took part on Saturday evening in a reception held at that place. The trip from Vancouver was made in the yacht Nora Jane, belonging to Mr. George Harrison, of Vancouver. In addition to the leader of the party and Mrs. Tolmie, there were also present Mr. and Mrs. Harrison, General A. D. McRae, M.P., and Mrs. McRae, Mr. W. C. Shelly and Mr. R. Maitland.

BRITISH TOURING PARTY DUE AUG. 26

Group of Forty-Eight, Organized in London, Will See Much of Canada

For a second time a personally conducted tour de luxe from the Old Country will be made across Canada, including a visit here on August 26.

On this occasion the tourists, who crossed on the liner Duchess of Bedford to Quebec, are limited to forty-eight persons. The party was organized in London, and it has been arranged to show them the sights of Canada as far as is practicable in seven weeks. The route will include parts of the Great Lakes, from Port McNicoll to Port William. A jump will be made to Calgary, two days are allotted to Banff, and one day to Lake Windermere camp, thence to Lake Louise. Vancouver is to be reached on August 25, and the party will arrive here on the following day. The Sanich Observatory is listed as one of the show points to be seen when in Victoria.

LONDON WELCOMES EMPIRE ATHLETES IN NOISY FASHION

LONDON, Aug. 6.—British Olympic competitors received a great ovation from London tonight when they returned from Amsterdam. It was a bank holiday, large crowds gathered at the station to wait for the train bringing the athletes home. When the leaders, including Lord Davey Burghley, 400-metre hurdles champion; Douglas Lowe, twice 800-metre titleholder; and Harold Abrahams, the noncompelling British team captain, stepped from the train there was such a rush from shouting admirers that the whole station staff had to be mobilized to protect them from embarrassing attentions.

SHOT IS FIRED IN NANAIMO OFFICE

NANAIMO, B.C., Aug. 6.—Thomas Furry was taken into custody here this afternoon after a shooting in the office of the Canadian Western Fuel Corporation of Canada, Ltd., and allegedly fired a shot from a revolver, which, according to police, narrowly missed John Hunt, manager of the mine, and P. Reggie of the office staff. The bullet was later extracted from a wall a few inches from where Mr. Hunt had been sitting.

STORM HITS BAHAMAS

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 6.—A tropical storm which raged about Nassau in the Bahamas today was believed to have recurred to the north or northwest, leaving Nassau damaged but little, and lessening danger of heavy gales on the lower east Florida coast. Vessels took the shelter of Nassau harbor after receiving warnings, and were said to be riding well through a northeast gale that increased in intensity throughout the afternoon.

Local and Provincial—Big grain elevator at Ogden Point to be in operation about first of month.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie attends reception at Powell River. British touring party due in Victoria on August 26.

Dominion, Imperial and Foreign—Cargo of twelve tons of powder shatters vessel off Tacoma. Section of pipe falling from freight car wrecks two following passenger trains in Illinois. Brigands interrupt Greek election by capturing two candidates.

Boy empties oil tank truck upon Vancouver street.

Logs crush man.

Greatness of Britain young.

FISH EGGS GO ABOARD

Twenty-five thousand landlocked salmon eggs collected from the Chamcook lakes, New Brunswick, were presented by the Dominion Department of Marine and Fisheries to the Department of Fisheries, Dublin, Ireland. The eggs hatched out very successfully and the fry was distributed in various waters throughout Ireland. One hundred thousand Kamloops and 50,000 speckled trout eggs were shipped from British Columbia to Tokyo, Japan, with excellent results, while, on the other hand, 22,000 brown trout eggs, forwarded from Dumfries, Scotland, were hatched out at Saint John, New Brunswick.

FEAT AS A FUEL

The peat bogs of Canada are quite extensive and constitute a reserve of fuel that has as yet been but little utilized. During the years 1919 to 1922 inclusive, the Dominion Government jointly with the Government of Ontario, operated an experimental plant for the production of air-dried machine peat on a bog

the same view, and he is Chancellor of the Exchequer. In his heart he distrusts protection, much to the consternation of Mr. —, well, perhaps I better not give the name."
"Mr. MacDonald, I have interviewed many eminent visitors from the Old Land. Almost without exception, they express the belief that you will again be Prime Minister.
What is your view about that?"
"I won't speak of it at all," the face and voice both touched with Scottish sternness.

"Well, do you think a Socialist leader will yet, and soon, be Premier?"
"I surely do. And my highest personal ambition is to make the country believe in us. I say with assurance that the people are far readier to take us now than they were before. They are sick of Baldwin.
What happened in 1923 will soon happen again."

THE HOUSE OF LORDS
"Mr. MacDonald, why did you never take a title?"

"Because I don't want one. Because I don't believe in them."

"But you gave a lot of them."
"Yes, but doesn't the Bible tell us it is more blessed to give than to receive?"

"What awaits the House of Lords?"

"Nothing."
"Not even reformation?"

"Every time the attempt is made to reform the Lords, insurmountable difficulties show up."

"Would you, Mr. MacDonald, abolish the House of Lords if you were Premier again?"

"Not because of any logical deduc-tion from certain principles. We are practical men. But if the Lords attempt to come to life again, I would abolish the chamber, make no mistake about that. A second chamber can function profitably, but only with limited powers. Such a chamber must in no sense be equal constitutionally to those of the Commons.
The members of a second chamber should carry on by right of their own initiative ability."

"But what assurance, Mr. Mac-Donald, can there be of ability, so long as hereditary right prevails?"

"None, absolutely none. Hereditary legislators are a joke. Yet I would not make the chamber elective. I would grant it certain number of life peers. But I would be careful of my men."

"In what way, Mr. MacDonald?"

"And then came something of as-sounding intelligence from the ex-Premier's lips. "This way," he began, "just the other day 'The London Times,' in an editorial, was discussing a possible peerage for the retiring Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Times said that in a very acute way Ramsay MacDonald had appointed peers, selecting men who either were not married or who had no male issue. And the Times was right. I added nothing to it. Believe me, my men were all bachelors, or childless, or the fathers of only girls."

CHURCH SITUATION
"Let me ask you still another question. What do you think of the Church situation in England?—the Prayer Book situation, I mean? Will there be disestablishment?"

"No, but if the Anglican Church is wise, it will ask for disestablishment; it is absurdly preposterous that a church should be subservient to a secular authority. And yet, if it claims the rights and emoluments of an establishment, it must submit to the secular field of expression. If the Revised Prayer Book is an approach to Roman Catholicism, the only source of effective protest is the British Parliament."

"Are you a Presbyterian?"

"Certainly, but not of the Auld Kirk. I belong to the United Free Church."

"Do you believe, ecclesiastically, in the principle of union?"

"I do not believe it is a principle.
I am not as strong for union as I was ten years ago, so far as Scotland is concerned. I doubt if it tends to vitalize—rather, I fear, to formalize and deaden. The peril of religion today is the peril of superstition. And too often these schemes are only to increase prestige and impressiveness—like a top hat when you go to Buckingham Palace."

"Do you think, in Britain, that the authority of religion waxes or wanes?"

"I fear it wanes. Church attendance is certainly on the decline."

CONDITION OF THE POOR
"Is the condition of the poor, of the lower classes, improving or degenerating?"

"Improving, decidedly. Do you remember Charles Booth's book about the classification of the poor?
Do you recall that Class B was of the bottom section, employed, but groveling in the mire? Well, the other day, a social commission reported that Class B has entirely disappeared. God knows we are better off than that. That sudden sediment has gone. We owe much of that to the dole, so vilified, but really a great benefaction. It is most decided by the kid-gloved parasites who themselves live by the dole, who have never done an honest day's work in their lives."

"The dole is maintained by compulsory deduction from wage. It is on the best actual foundation.
And through it, through using social worth, through public aid, through insurance, a principle never fully exploited, we are slowly getting in the elevating wedge. And, although millions we seek to raise are not yet far up the hill, yet we are keeping them from the trough, the slough, and little by little the lot of those at the bottom is being ameliorated."

Great Natural Resource

AMONG the natural assets of North America none is more noted than the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes chain, forming collectively the world's largest body of fresh water. Every student of Canadian exploration and settlement is familiar with the unique role played by this waterway in Canada's early development. Its modern contribution to the economic life of the Dominion is equally remarkable, although it cannot be measured by financial figures such as those for the annual wheat crop, gold output, lumber and so on, which so vividly reflect the productive value of the Prairies, mineral regions, forests and other great natural sources of wealth.
Perhaps the most striking testimony to the vital relation of this waterway to Canadian industry and commerce today is furnished by the series of cities and towns aligned along its course. According to the last census there were roundly 2,800,000 people in Canada living in cities with a population of 10,000 or more. And nearly sixty per cent of this aggregate was accounted for by the numerous cities which are situated along the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system and which owe their progress largely to the industrial and commercial advantages of such a location. The towns and cities drung out along the waterway intervals between Quebec and the head of the lakes are credited with more than half of the value of Canada's annual production of manufactures.

Detroit Manager Says Talk of Yankees "Easing Up" in American League Is Pure "Bunk"—Comments on Mack Changing Line-Up

By GEORGE MORIARTY
Manager of the Detroit Baseball Club.
(Copyright, 1928, by all countries by North American Newspaper Alliance.)

The line-up which Connie Mack has employed in his recent and surprising effort to overhaul the Yankees, gives baseball followers something to think about. It shows mainly the changing pattern of a ball club. Those grand veterans, Speaker and Cobb, have been steady-ly absent in order to make room for Haas and Simmons in the outfield.

A further glance shows two catchers, Cochrane and Fox in third and fifth positions respectively as batsmen. Fox, by the way, is exhibiting rare versatility as a third baseman, and he can also do a high-class job on the initial catch.
Orwell is showing splendid form at first base, and he may yet be seen pitching for the Yankees.

Just between you and me and everybody else, the Yanks would give their last to have back that 12 or 13 lead which had them dreaming of a world's series in October.

Why should the Yankees destroy a palace to dwell in a hovel?
If the bounding Thomases could only get on, I would not wonder if the clubhouse after a tough game is dropped, I am sure their doubts would fly hastily out the window.

I talked with Miller Huggins, the Yankees' pilot, a week ago regarding the outlook for his club, and I have never found a man in a more serene mood. Quite naturally, he was trying to straighten out the pitching problem which has unfortunately confronted him lately.

gate receipts at this time, there are a few questions to be asked.

Why should the Yankees allow themselves to romp ahead with a 13½ game lead to discourage the rush of the customers earlier in the season? And why should they allow Cleveland to pile up seventeen runs in two innings? And more recently, why should they go through the gruelling mental and physical grind of the 15-inning game they lost to the Browns? Couldn't the same result be accomplished in nine innings? Herb Pennock has been saved purposely with the hope of winning that game for the Yanks.

Every evening he is meeting all comers at the Tillicum Club rooms, Broad Street, and as there is quite a number of boxes in the city at the present time, he is fortunate in having a splendid squad of sparring partners, who give him a real workout every night. Joe Bayley, promoter of the bouts, who also acts as manager for Fielding, is very much pleased with the showing of his portage, and is of the opinion that he is a much-improved boxer.

Bayley is firmly of the opinion that in Fielding he has a coming champion, who in a year or so will be fighting against the topnotchers in the big fight centres. Up to the present, Fielding's greatest drawback has been his apparent lack of punching ability in order to win fights via the knockout route. Bayley is constantly working on this weakness, and he states that it will be long now until Fielding will be able to land a single wallop which will stop his opponent away to Slumberland.

On Saturday Fielding will be trying hard to win with a knockout, as he realizes that if he allows the clever and speedy sailor to stay the limit he may lose the fight on points. It is generally conceded by all that the sailor is a much faster and trickier performer than the diamond, and the opinion is that if the fight goes ten rounds, the decision will go to the sailor.

The local boxers for the balance of the season are working hard in preparation for their bouts. They are matched with formidable opponents, who, it is expected, will make them travel a top speed from the top of the gong.

The tickets for the bout went on sale yesterday, and it looks like a capacity crowd will attend.

WOMEN'S SPORTS MAY BE BARRED

Olympic Federation Discussing Advisability of Retaining Women Features on Programme

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—Controversy over whether women's track and field events should be retained on the Olympic programme was brought to the floor of the congress of the International Amateur Athletic Federation this afternoon. The majority of the council favored retaining the women features, limited to not more than six events, provided the gruelling 800-metre race is eliminated, but sharp opposition immediately developed. A prospective fight over the issue was postponed until tomorrow after Finland's representative had moved to abolish the women's events.

The federation reserved itself on tenth-second watches, adopting timing by them for races up to and including 250 metres only, after previously refusing to accept any records on a tenth-second basis.

Today's action which, it was specified, is non-retroactive, followed a report from a committee of three endorsing the accuracy of tenth-second watches and revealing that the perfection of accurate hundredth-second watches is likely in the near future.

WOMEN WANT MORE
The Women's Athletic Federation has put up a strenuous fight for a titling their part in the Olympic track and field programme henceforth, arguing for ten events instead of the five held last week.

This was definitely opposed by the I.A.A.F. council, which seriously considered dropping the entire feminine participation because of criticism growing out of the 800-metre race which exhausted virtually all the competitors, including the German winner, Frau Radke.
It appeared the event will be eliminated.

PACIFIC COAST FOREIGN TRADE COUNCIL TO SIT

Convention Which Came Here Last September Will Meet in Los Angeles Next Month

ATTRACTIVE LIST OF SPEAKERS IS NAMED

Leading business interests of the Pacific Coast of the United States, Western Canada and the West Coast and border states of Mexico, will gather together for the sixth annual convention of the Pacific Coast Foreign Trade Council, to be held in Los Angeles September 18-20.

Preliminary call of the convention has just been issued, by Mr. William Figgott, of Seattle, president of the council, to all Chambers of Commerce and trade organizations at principal ports extending from Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., on the north, to Manzanillo, Mexico, on the south, the Hawaiian Islands, on the west and El Paso, Texas, to the east.

"Team Work in Foreign Trade" has been designated as the keynote of the Los Angeles convention. Around this theme prominent business leaders of the Pacific Coast are being drawn upon for the preparation of a programme in which shipping and trade problems peculiar to the Pacific Coast will be presented with a view of bringing about closer co-operation in advancing the interests of this territory in world trade.

Export possibilities of the Pacific Coast, aviation and its potentialities in foreign trade, trade pioneering through motion pictures, farm relief via export trade, influences of the Panama and Suez Canals on Pacific Coast trade, and varied transportation needs of the Pacific Coast will be among many of the subjects to be featured in the three-day sessions.

Speakers before the convention will include Mr. Figgott, president of the Pacific Coast Foreign Trade Council, and its guiding spirit since its organization seven years ago; Mr. W. P. McCracken, assistant secretary of commerce in charge of aeronautics; Mr. John H. Rossiter, formerly Pacific Coast manager for W. R. Grace & Co.; Mr. F. N. Puente, general agent in San Francisco for the Mexican National Railways; and Captain S. S. Sandberg, recent appointee from Los Angeles to the United States Shipping Board and a member of other trade and shipping leaders.

Particular interest will be attached to a motion picture session which will be in the form of a banquet on the evening of September 19, with Douglas Fairbanks scheduled as chairman, and other important motion picture producing executives participating.

This will be the first occasion in which Los Angeles has had opportunity to sponsor this Pacific Coast Foreign Trade gathering, previous conventions having been held at Seattle, Tacoma, Portland, San Francisco, and last year at Victoria.

Officers of the council are as follows:

President, Mr. William Figgott, Seattle, vice-president Pacific Coast Steel Co., senior vice president, Mr. J. A. H. Kerr, Los Angeles, vice-president, Security Trust & Savings Bank, vice-president, Mr. J. J. Donovan, Bellingham, vice-president, Biocel-Donovan Lumber Mills, vice-president, Mr. Paul Shoup, San Francisco, vice-president, Southern Pacific Railway, vice-president, Mr. R. B. Wilcox, Portland, president, Wilcox-Hayes Co., treasurer, Mr. J. A. Swallow, Seattle, chairman of board of directors of Dexter Horton National Bank.

Pilgrims on Way To Battlefields Of North France

LONDON, Aug. 6.—A great pilgrimage is in progress with the migration of 11,000 British men and women to the battlefields of North France. The pilgrimage was begun on the fourteenth anniversary of Britain's entry into the colossal struggle.

The veterans will march along the familiar road of the days and through the fields of blood-red poppies, singing the same old songs as of yore.

The Prince of Wales, who served in France with the Royal Guards, will join the pilgrims.

The culminating feature of the visit will be a solemn ceremony at Ypres.

PREMIER KING STATES POLICY IS UNCHANGED

Liberal Government of Dominion Intends to Follow Middle Course on Tariff and Immigration

WILL NOT TAKE EXTREMIST PATH

BRANDON, Aug. 6.—Having regard to the progress of industrial development in Canada and the position of the country in regard to other countries, the Liberal government holds that the greatest good for the greatest number would never be affected by going to extremes in the matter of tariff, Premier W. L. Mackenzie King declared in an address before a large open-air gathering at the fair grounds this afternoon.

"The nation, I believe, will expect us to think twice before we change the course we have been pursuing, and yield, on the one hand to the overtures of the present Conservative Opposition and its leader, Mr. Bennett, to increase the tariff, now here, now there, until an all-round increase has taken place; or, on the other hand, to abolish the tariff altogether, as a few extremists in the opposite direction would have us do."

IMMIGRATION

With respect to immigration, Mr. King sounded a note of warning. "The situation, with regard to immigration as I see it, is similar to that of the tariff. There are the two extremes. There are those who for purely selfish reasons would have us flood our Dominion with all classes of immigrants, whether from Europe, the United States or the British Isles and wholly regardless of the effect which such wholesale immigration would have upon the labor market in this country. There are others who, for reasons equally selfish, would so restrict immigration as not to fill up the sparsely settled spaces of our Dominion, to assist in the development of its vast natural resources."

EFFORTS IN BRITAIN

The Premier asserted that the Government was directing its main immigration activities toward getting British settlers and was meeting with a larger degree of success than was generally appreciated. Movement of British immigrants to all countries had fallen off since the war. Canada, however, still had the premier place and continued to receive more Britishers than any other country. An official bulletin issued by the British Government clearly indicated that Canada's invitation to the British settler was not only frankly extended but was supported by generous provision for establishing him in this country. The only classes whose passages were assisted from the Federal Treasury were from the British Isles and there was no restriction whatever beyond requirement that these should not be criminals or defectives.

No special effort was made by the Government to obtain immigration from Continental Europe comparable to the British Isles. At the same time Canada did not close her doors to desirable Continentals. It was not proposed to renew the much-discussed "railway agreements," relating to Continental immigration when they expired in 1930, he stated.

In addition to immigration from the United States, 187,840 Canadians had returned to Canada from that country in the last four years.

MR. BALDWIN GIVES PLEDGE AS TO TARIFF

British Premier Promises Party Will Not Introduce Tariff Protection or Taxes on Food

TO AID INDUSTRY BY OTHER MEANS

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Stanley Baldwin Saturday pledged his party not to introduce protection as an issue in the coming general election. The Premier made this promise in a letter which he sent to Commander Bolton M. Eyles-Moore, chief Government whip in the Commons. The letter explained itself as having been written "because of some confusion of thought among Unionist members arising from condensed reports of certain speeches."

The epistle stated the Government's attitude on tariff duties, and on rating or tax relief. It said: "Safeguarding has been the law of the land since it was established as a principle of Lloyd George's Government in 1921. It was the only policy we adopted at the last general election, and it will be continued."

PLEDGES GIVEN

"We pledge and shall continue to be pledged not to introduce protection. We pledge and shall continue to be pledged not to impose any taxes on food."

The Premier wrote that the boldness and originality of the Government's tax plan for permanent relief of productive industries has been "no doubt the reason why both opposition parties have been trying to drag in a protectionist red herring in the vain hope of causing dissension in a party whose unity and enthusiasm has aroused their envious admiration."

VIOLENT EARTHQUAKE IN MEXICAN REGION

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 6.—Disasters in the State of Oaxaca, said that that town was partly destroyed at noon Saturday by the most violent earthquake ever recorded there. After a heavy quake at noon, fifty more tremors were felt on Saturday and ten on Sunday morning. The people are panicky and are living in the open in fear that the remaining buildings might collapse. Several "mountains" in the region were reported to have disappeared.

Quilichua also suffered, but no casualties were reported anywhere, although fears were entertained for Huixtla, since no replies to telegrams had gone from there. The other towns hardest hit were Jantique, Cacahuatpec, Ilimama and Minizo.

The quake on Saturday noon was followed by torrential rains which added to the destruction.

PLANE PLUNGES NEAR STEAMER

POLISH FLYERS TURN BACK FROM MID-ATLANTIC—PIPELINE BREAKS

When Off Spain Machine Capsizes and Drops Into Sea—Crew Swims Till Rescued

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 6.—Major Kassimir Kubala said today that a broken pipeline forced him and his companion, Major Louis Idzikowski, to turn back after they had flown twenty-one hours out of the forty-two hours which it was estimated it would take them to fly from Paris to New York.

When they were seventy miles out of Cape Finisterre, westernmost point of Spain, they noticed additional damage. This caused the plane to capsize and the heavy machine plunged into the sea near the Samos. The wings broke and the plane was otherwise damaged.

"We threw ourselves into the sea," said Kubala. "We swam toward the Samos, whose crew rescued us and then took the plane in tow. We were altogether thirty-eight hours in the air."

The airman plan to leave for Paris with the plane on Wednesday. Turning back while well out to sea, the aviators saw the Samos sixty miles off shore.

The airman turned toward the ship and circling over it dropped a message in a small weighted tube on its deck. The message asked the ship to stand by to pick them up.

WINGS SMASHED

The Pilsudski struck the water with such force that the wings were smashed. The flyers did not wait to inflate their collapsible rubber boat—the only device they carried for their safety. Both men jumped overboard.

They were swimming near the wreckage when the Samos picked them up. The wrecked plane, which was valued at a million francs, was towed to Leveque by the ship. It was found to be so seriously damaged that it was thought it would be almost useless.

ENGLISH WOMEN DEFENDED

English women are greatly agitated over the charge made by a prominent Frenchman that women are being deformed by English sports and games. The critic had been studying the fashionable French dressmakers' catalogues with their drawings of peculiar creatures with hollow chests, curved figures, sharp shoulder blades and crooked legs. They shocked him, he said, and he added that as these drawings were used by English dressmakers as a general fashion guide, the English girls must like them. Englishmen have replied that the pictures were not those of the real woman athlete and gymnast, and they resent the liberty taken by French fashion artists in displaying them.

REAL ESTATE BOARD TO HOLD PICNIC

Gathering Will Be Held at Saseenos, by Invitation of Mr. A. Carmichael, on Saturday

The first picnic of the Real Estate Board of Victoria is to be held at the summer camp of Mr. A. Carmichael at Saseenos, Sooke, on Saturday afternoon, when members of the real estate profession, together with their families, will gather together and spend an afternoon by the sea. A series of land and water sports will be staged during the afternoon.

The sporting events are being arranged by W. H. Davies, of the Empire Realty Company, Limited, and will consist of aquatic events for children and adults, also land events consisting of races, softball game between teams representing employers and employees, quoits, tug-of-war, and several novelty events.

Members of the real estate profession who are desirous of obtaining information regarding the picnic or sports are requested to get in touch with Hubert Leithaby, phone 55, of W. H. Davies, phone 2251.

REWARD OFFERED

SEATTLE, Aug. 6.—Mayor Edwards today announced the offer of a $1,000 reward for the apprehension of the perpetrators of the bombing of the Colonial Theatre here Saturday night, endangering hundreds of lives, and throwing the downtown district into turmoil. Buildings were shaken for blocks around and windows were broken.

The bombing, which was the sixth in Seattle in recent months directed at theatres in which John Darr is financially interested, occurred on the roof of the building.

By means of actual tests in road construction it has been definitely established that the bituminous sands of Northern Alberta can be successfully employed for paving purposes. As the present supply of these sands is practically unlimited, their presence and use appear to have solved the problem of permanent paving and road construction in the Western provinces.

REV. C. E. DOBBS DIES

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Rev. Conway E. Dobbs, eighty-eight, pioneer of the Church of England in Western Canada, is dead at his home here. Prior to entering the ministry, Mr. Dobbs had a remarkable career as a civil engineer, and was a member of the original Canadian Pacific Railway continental survey party.

PER CAPITA TAXATION

A newspaper usually so well informed as The Manitoba Free Press can err, and err badly upon occasion, when it is commencing an argument for political purposes. In replying to Mr. R. B. Bennett's criticism that Canada is "exceptionally heavily taxed," it quotes a table of per capita taxation which, it claims, is issued by the Citizens' Research Institute. This table gives the per capita taxation of Canada, for Federal, Provincial and Municipal purposes, as $65.52, and this amount is contrasted with a per capita tax in Australia of $73.20, in Great Britain of $62.42, and in the United States of $69.94. The figures are wrong in respect to Canada; for all we know, they may be equally wrong in regard to other countries.

In the table which shows how the per capita tax in Canada is arrived at, it is given as: National $35.34, Provincial $6.33 and Municipal $23.85—a total of $65.52. In the foregoing figures the per capita tax for provincial purposes, given as $6.33, is utterly erroneous. The Dominion Bureau of Statistics, in its report of the financial statistics of provincial governments for 1927, gives the per capita taxation per province. The lowest of these is Prince Edward Island, with a per capita tax of $10.04, and the highest is British Columbia, with a per capita tax of $33.75. Now, it is perfectly obvious that if the province in the Dominion with the lowest taxation has a per capita of $10.04 for provincial purposes, and if, for similar purposes, the province of the Dominion with the heaviest taxation—namely, British Columbia—has a per capita tax of $33.75, then the average per capita tax for provincial purposes in the Dominion cannot be $6.33. The Manitoba Free Press should know this full well.

In British Columbia, on the basis of the figures published by The Manitoba Free Press, and correcting those that affect this province by the record of the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the total per capita taxation for all purposes would reach $92.94, which is in excess of the per capita taxation in Great Britain, as shown in The Manitoba Free Press. Probably, however, the figures as compiled by the Citizens' Research Institute of Canada are wrong in other respects, as well as in their relation to provincial taxation. As a matter of fact, they are wrong for Federal taxation, for the per capita taxation in this respect should be higher than is given. The Manitoba Free Press has not only failed miserably in answering the arguments of Mr. R. B. Bennett, but has shown a carelessness in quoting figures which might have been corrected by a reference to the finances of the Province of Manitoba, where the per capita taxation in 1927 was $16.15 for provincial purposes.

BRITAIN'S LIBERALS

In Britain the Liberals are boasting about a change of sentiment in the country, as illustrated by the results of by-elections since the Baldwin Government assumed office. The boast is hardly sustained by fact. At the last general election the Liberals in Parliament, including the late Speaker, numbered forty. Today they number thirty-nine. In by-elections the Liberals have gained four seats and lost three, but one of their members turned Conservative and another became an Independent. Within ten years in one constituency alone, Halifax, they have lost 10,000 votes, and in Halifax, in six years, they lost 6,000 votes. These facts hardly indicate the Liberal revival of which optimists within the party speak. The truth is that the Liberals are marking time, and while doing so they are casting about in every direction for a policy with which to appeal to the people in the general election of next year. So far, they do not seem to have found one that has aroused the slightest enthusiasm in Britain.

IRISH IN SCOTLAND

It is not easy to foresee how anything can be done to put a stop to, or regulate, the influx of Irish settlers into Scotland. This influx has become more especially marked since Ireland obtained Home Rule. Recently representatives of the Churches of Scotland waited on the Home Secretary and the Secretary of State for Scotland urging that a quota system should be established and that Irishmen should be only allowed to settle in Scotland when sufficient work is available for them. Unless something of this character is done, the contention made is that the whole character of the Scottish people would be changed.

It appears that between 1881 and 1901 the increase in the Irish population in Scotland was 32½ per cent, compared with an increase of only 18½ per cent of native Scotsmen. Between 1901 and 1921 the increase in the Irish population was 39 per cent, compared with six per cent of native Scotsmen. The deputation waited on the British Ministers emphasized that the Irish represented 25 per cent of the population of Glasgow and had received 70 per cent of the relief funds of all kinds that were distributed. Moreover, to clinch an argument about the undesirability of Irish immigration, it was pointed out that the convictions in the police courts of Glasgow in 1920 were 33 per cent Irish, and in the following year 29 per cent Irish.

The plea is made that those Irishmen and women who enter Scotland and become chargeable to the rates within a given time of their arrival should be sent back to their native country. The contention is put forward that those Irishmen who cannot obtain entrance to the United States, because regarded as undesirable, are making their way to Scotland. There are also instances of Irishmen who are taking the bread out of the Scotsman's mouth by obtaining work while the native born are walking the streets. The proposal of a quota system as regards the British Isles is quite a new idea. It is wholly unlikely that it will be enforced. Probably the most that the British Government will attempt to do will be to negotiate with the Free State Government to take back the pauper population of Irish who are a burden on the Scottish rates. There is no suggestion about deportation, nor is there likely to be, unless the Free State is agreeable to this method.

SUN SPOTS

A commission has been formed by the International Research Council to inquire into solar and terrestrial relationship. The theory has been held for a long time that sun spots, at present very active, have an effect on the earth's weather, but what that effect is remains to be discovered. It is taken for granted, however, until otherwise disproved, that there is a connection of some kind between the condition of the sun's disc and magnetic storms. Professor Sydney Chapman, of the Imperial College of Science and Technology of South Kensington, who is a member of the commission mentioned, believes that magnetic disturbance is an indication of the impingence upon the earth of some solar emission which must be of corpuscular nature. He says that nothing happens when the sun is not emitting the corpuscles, "but equally nothing happens upon the earth when the streams are issuing from the sun, except when they chance to encounter the earth." These streams do not necessarily emanate from sun spots, because magnetic storms are recorded when spots are absent from the solar disc for several days. One argument has it that these supposed streams are emitted by an excess of radiation pressure.

The problem of finding out what is the exact effect of sun spots on the earth is a large one. An index number is to be assigned to show solar activity each day. In the matter of the sun spots, attention will be confined to a specialized region in the middle of the solar disc, "since, as it is assumed, that the stream issues radially, it is only such a region that can affect the earth." According to a report of the research work being carried out, "index numbers are already assigned according to a certain system to show the magnetic condition of the earth day by day, and it is proposed that similar indications of the amount of ionization of the upper atmosphere, which is believed to be due to radiation of the sun, of the appearance of the aurora and of its spectrum, which is probably an evidence of such ionization, and of ultra-violet radiation, might be studied together to detect correlations."

Afforestation in Britain is proceeding according to plan, and each year more progress is reported. The report of the Forestry Commissioners for the year ending September 30 last has just been published, and shows acquisitions during the year amounting to 36,039 acres, of which 30,755 are classed as plantable. The total area of plantable land now acquired amounts to 244,838 acres. In the year under review 21,963 acres were planted in conifers. In all, 90,156 acres have been planted. In a ten-year period it is proposed to plant 135,000 acres. There are to be 5,000 acres planted in hardwoods during the same period.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE

Where, without Eve, should we have been? Like Adam, content to sleep in the sun, ignorant, helpless, irresponsible, incapable of achievement, of the construction of any standard of scale of values. . . . It is to Eve we owe the best things we possess. Her recognition of the fact that everything has to be paid for, and, above all, intellectual curiosity. Yet, until quite recent times, these keys of Heaven have been confined in the man's mind to the woman who is asked of the daughters of Eve that they should look like their mother, and have taken little interest in the daughters' efforts to be like her. But these efforts are now very active. Intellectual curiosity may be, today, causing some unedifying experimentation, and a good deal of loud smashing of crockery; but not all the crockery deserved the ply with which it was preserved, and the clearance is making it possible to see things obscure before—Mary A. Hamilton, in The Atlantic Monthly.

"AMATEURISM"

William T. Tilden was barred from the American tennis team in France because it was suspected that he was making money by writing for the press. He was reinstated because his absence would have lowered the attendance at the games. In other words, he was reinstated so that the promoters of the game would make more money. This is amateurism—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Note and Comment

By R. A. D.

Discussing the writing and publication of books, of which there is no end, a critic says: "Many books are bad; most are mediocre. A few are good; about one each year is excellent." We have been seeking that excellent book for a long time, and in divers places, and have not been successful in finding it. For we sometimes become tired of reading the papers, which devote nearly all their space to the doings of politicians and the feats of athletes, and turn to the works of the philosophers and men and women of genius and imagination for a change of mental diet.

After reading, or rather trying to read, most of the books written by the eminent creative artists of the present day, we wonder "what the world is coming to." Or perhaps we should say, we wonder about the moral state of the society in which the eminent literary creative artists move and gather the material for their books. We suppose and trust there are almost as many good men and women in the world today as there were in the days when Scott, Dickens, Thackeray, and others wrote their masterpieces, and the books the Old Masters wrote were masterpieces, whatever Wells and Bennett may say to the contrary—but, if there are such men and women today, none of them are found in current popular fiction. Either modern writers are unfortunate in their social associations, or the men and women of the present day are a depraved and hopeless lot.

There were of course some "hopeless cases" amongst the characters in the old books. The characters in the new books appear to be all hopeless cases. They all find the conditions in the world in a hopeless mess, morally, politically, socially and economically. Most of them are all mistated socially. They cannot even hope for relief through the divorce courts, for that would mean exposure of their private affairs to a curious and censorious world, which at heart is quite as corrupt as they are. There is but one way to freedom and happiness.

That is by way of a general revolution. All existing institutions are basically wrong and must be changed. There can be no true happiness in the world as long as old and worn-out conventions are maintained. If married people become momentarily temperamental and develop fits of incompatibility, they must be considered free to seek happiness (their natural heritage) in new and ideal associations.

Doubtless there are many institutions in the world that are capable of improvement, but we suppose our case is not singular, and although we have travelled a considerable distance, we have not found all the paths we traversed gloomy and depressing. Some of the institutions of the world we believe to be worthy of preservation, for under them we have experienced a great deal of enjoyment, and if they are maintained we believe those who are to follow after us may derive some measure of enjoyment from them too. In particular, we have derived much enjoyment from reading good books—and the good books from which we derived much enjoyment were all good old books.

Only the other day we had been trying to read a book by a modern writer, which turned out to be so depressing that we flung it aside and picked from the shelves a volume containing a few of the stories written by Charles Dickens. This volume was so tattered and torn that it was difficult to read. Its pages had been read and turned over so often that the book was falling to pieces. Some persons had been ahead of us—or rather had followed us—and had alternately laughed and wept as they read about the uproarious doings of loyal Sam Weiler and the pathetic death of faithful Little Nell.

Critical creative artists of the modern school tell us that Sam was nothing but a clown and that Nell should have been cast for a leading part in a melodrama. Well, there is a time to laugh and a time to weep. In the book we threw aside there were neither light nor dark shades, but an atmosphere of continual depression. It was one of the works of John Galsworthy, who is considered one of the most gifted writers of the present day.

Galsworthy has written one great book and created one interesting character, Soames Forsyte, and Soames is interesting because of the peculiar development of his disposition. In the beginning he was a sullen, morose and intensely selfish and disagreeable young man. In the end he reformed and became somewhat attractive old man. But it was a hard job to transform Soames the hard young man into Soames the mellow old man. It involved much unhappiness for some other men and a few women. But the author owes something to his character, for if Galsworthy had not created Soames, no one who ever read his books would have believed it possible that he was endowed with a sense of humor. It was an intensely humorous idea to make Soames Forsyte begin to play golf and smoke tobacco at the age of seventy years.

Alpine Club in Camp at Lake of Hanging Glaciers—Closes for Season

Trail Riders Are Successors

No. VI

MAIN CAMP, July 30.—The twenty-third annual camp of the Alpine Club of Canada is over. Word had gone forth to "pack your grip and hit the trail." This was followed by a rapid exodus until none remained but the family, so to speak, that is those preparing to receive the "Trail Riders," for they are coming, some sixty strong, to occupy the deserted camp of the Alpine Club for several days. Again the canvas city will respond to joyous laugh and cheery greeting; again the big camp fire will send sparks upward toward the watching stars, illuminating the happy faces of a jovial crowd, and song, story and jest will revel in the primeval surroundings of waterfall and cascade, of towering rock peak, of ice and snow; again the cook's tiffin will call the ravenous riders there to the festive board, and much provision will be disposed of.

The citizens have gone, but many plans have been made by those who still have time to wander in the magic land. A jolly crowd will gather at the "Pay Hut" of the Alpine Club, high upon the side of Prospectors' Valley, and from it will climb amidst the Ten Peaks and others of the vicinity; a riding party is planned for the trail up Tumbling Creek to the broad, park-like alpine below the Washam wapta icefield and the towering heights of Mt. Goodrich, then on to Lake O'Hara, gem of them all, and thence to Banff, where others plan to visit Mt. Assiniboine, the Canadian Matterhorn, beneath whose snowy crest nestles the wonderful camp of the Marquis des Albini, and close beside it, the bungalow camp of the Canadian Pacific Railway, also operated by the Marquis. This indeed is a spot to visit: "See Rome and die," but not until you have seen Mt. Assiniboine and its glorious surroundings; the names, Lake Louise, Marjorie, Cerulean Lake, Valley of the Rocks, Golden Valley, Citadel Pass and Sunshine, conjure up visions of scenic splendors that are more than verified. Still others plan for farther north; to Jasper Lodge and Maligne Lake, to Tonquin Valley, to Mt. Robson and Berg Lake; the choice is infinite when one travels in a land of enchantment, where magic reigns supreme.

It has been a great camp, a wonderfully happy one, where all have followed the full of their inclination, and the pages of memory's scrapbook will be turned again and again during the long winter months to relive the glories of the scenes, and the impressions and lessons they convey. For the climbers, the green of the sunlit forest, so vivid that it thrills, the towering greys of the rocks, the glacial ice and the dazle of the snow have in thirty-six separate instances led from the full of their inclination, and the pages of memory's scrapbook will be turned again and again during the long winter months to relive the glories of the scenes, and the impressions and lessons they convey. BALLOT TALLY DUE THURSDAY

Tabulation, Except in Vancouver and Victoria, Should Be Promptly Achieved

ADVENT OF NEW MINISTRY DOUBTFUL

The official count of the ballots in the late provincial election will start in the various ridings of the province on Thursday morning, which will mark the final act as far as the elections are concerned, except in cases where a recount before a judge may be demanded, or an appeal may be made to the courts for a decision as to regularity in connection with any particular election.

The recount, before a judge will not be asked for, it is anticipated, in many cases. Where the majorities are substantial such a course would not be very gratifying, as it would stand to alter only by a few votes, possibly, the majority of the leading candidate.

In many of the ridings the vote will be tabulated within the first day, and in the great majority of them before the end of the week. The testing out of the absentee vote will also take place at this time.

PUBLISHERS MAKE BRIEF STAY HERE

Party of Garden City Press Officials Pays a Visit to Victoria

A party consisting of Mr. J. J. Harpell, Captain F. W. Wallace and Mr. R. C. Rowe, all connected with The Garden City Press, of Gardenvale, near Montreal, Que., were in the city yesterday. They are on a tour of the West, leaving the city last evening homeward.

Mr. Harpell, who is president of The Garden City Press, which for several years has been engaged in the publication of a number of trade magazines for Canada, is a frequent visitor to the West in connection with his group of publications.

Captain Wallace is editor-in-chief of The Canadian Fisherman, one of the magazines issued from The Garden City Press. He is perhaps better known throughout Canada from his short stories and full-length novels, which during the past ten or twelve years have appeared.

He is a qualified navigator, and knows the sea, so that his writings which have generally to do with the life of the sailor, breathe the true air of the sea. Formerly editor of The Canadian Fisherman, he some years ago gave up active work at that line, and took up his residence in New York, where he spent some five or six years following the lure of literary work. Recently he was persuaded to come back to The Fisherman, where his practical knowledge of the business makes his work valuable.

Mr. Rowe has also joined The Garden City Press as editor of the Canadian Mining Journal within recent months. It is his first trip to the West, and he is charmed with it.

MR. J. J. GUAY IS VISITING VICTORIA

Canadian Trade Commissioner for Belgium Meets Manufacturers—Mr. J. A. Langley Coming

Mr. Jean J. Guay arrived here yesterday morning to meet local business men in the course of his duties as Canadian Trade Commissioner in Belgium.

As a consequence of the recent redistribution of the countries assigned to Canadian trade commissioners on the European continent, the Brussels area, of which he is in charge, includes Belgium, Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary.

Mr. Guay will be here today, and will then proceed to Calgary, where he is due August 11.

The next trade commissioner to visit here is Mr. James A. Langley, of Kobe, who is commissioner for Japan. Mr. Langley is expected to arrive on Wednesday.

Engaged in Fight

Richard Stevens and Albert Atkinson were fined $10 each in the city police court yesterday on a charge of engaging in a fight near a public highway. They both pleaded guilty to the charge.

Mrs. M. F. Driscoll was fined $5 in the city police court yesterday for failing to produce her driver's licence upon request of a police constable.

RANCH OWNER TO RESIDE IN CITY

Mr. Charles McGillivray, of Half-Way Ranch, Between Lytton and Lillooet, to Move Here

Mr. Charles McGillivray, Sr., who with his wife will reside here after disposing of the Half-Way Ranch, between Lillooet and Lytton, has been a resident of the Interior for many years.

The property has been sold to Mr. W. R. Hayward, of North Battleford, Sask., who will use it as a sheep run, adding 5,000 head of sheep.

Mr. McGillivray crossed from the Old Country in 1884, and married at Kamloops four years later. For thirteen years he was employed as a C.P.R. foreman, leaving the company's service in 1897 to establish the ranch. Without any road facilities at the time, the lumber for the house and furniture was taken up the Fraser River to the site.

The area of the property is now about 600 acres, with a considerable acreage under lease for grazing.

One of the sons, Mr. George McGillivray, will remain with Mr. Hayward as ranch manager.

Obituary

WELLS—The funeral of Mrs. Laura Annie Wells, who passed away at the Royal Jubilee Hospital on August 1, will take place on Thursday afternoon. Funeral service will be held at the Thomson Funeral Home, 1025 Quadra Street, at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in the Royal Oak Burial Park. Rev. T. H. Davies, pastor of Knox Presbyterian Church, will conduct the service.

BLENKINSON—On Sunday there passed away in this city James George Blenkinsop, aged seventy-two years, born in Hyderabad, India, and a resident of this province for twenty-seven years. Mr. Blenkinsop was a member of the Loyal Order of Moose. He leaves one sister in England. The remains are at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel, from where the funeral will take place on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

HILL—Funeral service was held at Hayward's B.C. Funeral Chapel on Sunday afternoon by Rev. J. G. G. Bompas for Mrs. Marie E. Hill, of Shawanigan Lake, who died at the Royal Jubilee Hospital on Saturday afternoon. Many beautiful flowers covered the casket. The remains were forwarded on Monday night to Vancouver for cremation. A son and a daughter survive.

STENTON—The death took place yesterday afternoon at St. Joseph's Hospital of Margaret Lottie Stenton, the seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry R. Stenton, 1261 McKenzie Avenue. She is survived by her parents and one brother at home. The body is at Thomson's Funeral Parlors. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

NIXON—There passed away on Sunday at the family residence, 248 Gorge Road, Robert Nixon, aged seventy-nine years. Mr. Nixon was born in Sunderland, England, but came to Canada forty years ago, settling at Mortlach, Sask., where he resided for thirty years. He had been a resident of this city for eight years. He leaves his widow at the family residence, and four daughters, Miss Margaret Nixon, at home; Miss Jennie Nixon and Mrs. Campbell, Mortlach, Sask.; and Mrs. Evelyn, Silvertown, Ore.; also two sons, William and Joseph Nixon, at Mortlach. The remains are at the S. J. Curry & Son Funeral Home pending the arrival of relatives from the East. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

PRIMATE OF CANADA WILL RETIRE SOON

Archbishop Matheson Submits Resignation—Will Continue as Bishop of Rupert's Land

BISHOPS CALLED TO CHOOSE SUCCESSOR

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—Archbishop Samuel Pritchard Matheson will retire as Primate of the Church of England in Canada September 22. He will continue in service, however, as Bishop of Rupert's Land and chancellor of Manitoba University. Yesterday the Archbishop, who is nearly seventy-five years of age, made known his intention to resign, expressing the belief he should hand over the reins of the Primate's office to a younger man. His resignation has been submitted and a successor will be chosen at a meeting of the House of Bishops called for September 22.

For nearly twenty years he has been Primate of the church in Canada. Three archbishops are mentioned as probable successors. They are the Archbishops of Nova Scotia, New Westminster and Huron.

Archbishop Matheson, who is a native of Manitoba, born in the old Selkirk settlement of East Kildonan, succeeded Archbishop Robert Machray in the primacy.

Children Enjoy Many Delightful Picnics

The regular meeting of the Ladies' Committee of the Protestant Orphanage was held at the Home yesterday. The president, Mrs. C. H. Walker, was in the chair, and the following were present: Mesdames Shepherd, McKewen, Dillough, Walsh, Edwards, Sherwood, Dinmore and Miss Murray.

During the month of July the children had been well entertained. Six of the boys went to Beaver lake for a week to the Y.M.C.A. camp. Four of the girls went to the Girl Guide Camp. Miss Coward entertained six Guides from the Orphanage to supper at the Cadboro Bay Rangers' Camp. The Recreation Club entertained the children at the Cordova Bay regatta, giving them supper on the beach. A memorable afternoon was spent by all as guests of Mr. J. North and the Boxing Club, at the Esquimalt Lagoon.

The Gyro Club sent a load of sand for the children to play in. The committee wishes to thank the Salvation Army for its help during the day.

Mrs. Herbert Wood spoke to the children about Japan, telling them stories of the Christian evangelists.

Visiting ladies for August are Mrs. Sherwood and Mrs. Walsh. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, September 4, on account of Monday being Labor Day.

Donations were as follows: Mr. Sayward, vegetables and cherries; Army and Navy Veterans, box oranges; Mrs. Helmecken, suitcase; Mrs. Kirk, books and cards; Mrs. McCulloch, red currants; Joan Pinhorn, doll; Mr. Kirk, cherries; Mrs. J. NONOGENARIAN TO CROSS AGAIN

Ezra Meeker Will Achieve Transcontinental Journey by Automobile for Second Time

HAS BEEN THREE TIMES BY OX WAGON

At the age of ninety-seven, Ezra Meeker, pioneer of the Oregon Trail, and well known here from his periodical visits to pioneer families of this locality, was due to leave New York on Sunday on his sixth transcontinental journey.

Since he crossed by prairie schooner for the first time as a boy of twenty-one, seventy-six years ago, he has twice crossed by ox team, once by automobile, and once by aeroplane.

He will on this occasion make his second journey by automobile. Ralph Steen, a University of Kansas student, driving the car.

For the past year Mr. Meeker has lived in New York. His early days were spent at various points in Western Washington, while of late years he has devoted himself, by lectures and books, to perpetrating the memories of the Oregon Trail, and the covered wagons which played so large a part in trekking west, as they did with the Boers in their northward treks from the Cape.

TRAFFIC PLANS ARE FRUSTRATED

DOUBLE STOPPING AT HILLSIDE AND QUADRA STREETS OPPOSED BY COUNCIL

Tallyho Soliciting Made Illegal—Law to Be Enforced Only if Shouting Is Continued

Efforts made by Commissioner Walter E. Staneland to have double stopping at the Hillside and Quadra Streets intersection, and also at the intersection of Quadra and Pandora Avenue were frustrated at last night's meeting of the City Council, as also was an effort to make all cars stop at the foot of Moss Street hill before crossing Richardson Street.

When the Traffic Regulations By-Law was introduced for amendment last night there were four more arterial highways introduced. None of them passed, however.

The first was to make Richardson Street, from Cornwall Street to Minto Street, an arterial highway. This would have made it necessary for all cars coming down the steep hill on Moss Street to stop before crossing Richardson Street, and also to stop at Richardson Street, preventing a motorist from accelerating to make the Moss Street hill. A proposal was made that Moss Street be made the arterial highway at this point, because it was the busier thoroughfare, but the motion of Alderman Worthington that the amendment to the by-law be struck out carried.

Amendments that would make Rockland Avenue from Cook Street to Moss Street, Hillside Avenue from Wark Street to Fifth Street, and Pandora Avenue from Blanshard Street to Vancouver Street arterial highways, were also out.

Alderman Mara expressed the opinion that the commission was going too far when it proposed to make double stops at the Hillside and Quadra Streets intersection. Motorists stopping at these points would not know which one was to proceed first.

"You will have the citizens up in arms if this is done, and the next thing you know all the food that has been done will be washed out."

It was only by Mayor Pendray casting the deciding vote that the double stop regulation at Hillside and Quadra Streets was defeated. Another amendment to the Traffic Regulations By-law was that parking of cars in the business district be prohibited between the hours of 2 o'clock a.m. and 6:30 o'clock a.m. This takes the place of the former regulation that only allowed hourly parking during that period.

In order to more successfully deal with bolterous soliciting of tallyho business and to prevent shouting and occasional fighting, particularly at the C.P.R. championship terminal, the City Council last night made soliciting of this character illegal. The law would only be enforced, however, if there was a recurrence of shouting and fighting, the mayor explained.

BALL PLAY-OFFS START TOMORROW

Westholme Hotel Will Battle Sidney in First Game of Series to Decide Commercial League

Westholme Hotel and Sidney Commercial League baseball nines, winners of the first and second half, respectively, will meet tomorrow evening on the millmen's stronghold in the first game of the play-offs for the McGavin Cup. The game will start at 8:15 o'clock, with "Allie" McGavin as umpire.

Donaldson, who heaved the home crew to victory over the Jokers in the last game, will work on the mound again tomorrow.

Donaldson is heaving good ball, and is expected to give the hotelmen plenty of worry. Manager Jack Bacon, of the Westholme crew, has not announced his chucker, but it is expected that "Speed" Behnson will go to the hillock in the first game.

WORLD-WIDE POPULARITY ON SUMMER MORNINGS!

GRAPE-NUTS is a favorite the whole world round. It's so light, so crisp, so cool, so temptingly delicious—and it's ready to eat from the package.

Grape-Nuts is sold in more parts of the world than any other breakfast food. Its supreme deliciousness has been a favorite of two generations from childhood upwards, despite the coming and going of almost numberless other breakfast foods.

Grape-Nuts has earned this year-in, year-out popularity by its wonderful flavor, and its unique health qualities. It is almost instantly digested. And because it is made from whole wheat and malted barley, Grape-Nuts give your body these five essential elements of nutrition: dextrins, maltose and other carbohydrates for energy; iron to enrich the blood; phosphorus for teeth and bones; protein for muscle and body-building; and the important vitamin-B.

Enjoy this glorious summer food in your home. Four teaspoonfuls, costing less than one cent, is a sufficient helping. Serve with milk or cream. Your grocer sells it.

Grape-Nuts for Delicious Nourishment

Crisp Foods Aid to Better Teeth and Gums
The crispness of the golden Grape-Nuts kernels was deliberately planned for health! Dentists will tell you that modern diseases of teeth and gums are largely due to modern soft foods. And the crispness of Grape-Nuts is a delightful crispness—makes you enjoy this healthful thing.

ZONING BOARD ADJOURNS CASE

APPLICATION TO ERECT STABLE ON HEYWOOD AVENUE HAS MUCH OPPOSITION

Hearing to Be Reported by Stenographer—Mayor Stresses Importance of Appeal

When the Zoning Board of Appeal met yesterday afternoon to consider Mr. Scott's application to build a stable on Heywood Avenue, it found representatives from all sources waiting to be heard on the question. Mr. C. H. O'Halloran, barrister, represented the St. Ann's Convalescent Home, which objects to the erection of horse stables in the vicinity. Several real estate men were present to object on the ground that it would depreciate the value of their property while members of the School Board were also present to object on the ground that horseback riding in Beacon Hill Park, where children play, would be a menace to the children's safety.

Mayor J. Carl Pendray left a committee meeting in the comptroller's office specially to appear before the board and ask that all witnesses be reported verbatim owing to the amount of opposition that had been raised to the erection of the stable and in view of the fact that three times in succession the City Council has refused to give a permit for it. Mr. O'Halloran made it understood to the board that he did not recognize its jurisdiction in the matter, but insisted that if any evidence was given a stenographer should be employed to have the evidence recorded.

It was decided to adjourn the meeting until August 22, when both sides would be heard and a full report taken of it.

NORTH SAANICH SOCIAL CLUB

SIDNEY, Aug. 6.—A very pleasant time was spent by the members and friends of the North Saanich Social Club on Saturday night, when a large crowd gathered for the regular weekly card party and social evening. An enjoyable game of progressive five hundred was indulged in at eleven tables, and in the conclusion of which the ladies' first prize was presented to Mrs. A. Sanabury, and the men's prize was awarded to Mr. L. Ricketts. At the termination of the game, the supper committee served the daily refreshments and the remainder of the evening was spent in dancing, which was enthusiastically continued until midnight.

"You seem to have plenty of intelligence for a man in your position," sneered a barrister, cross-examining a witness.

"If I wasn't on oath I'd return the compliment," replied the witness.

Air Mail Service Popular

SINCE its inception last Friday by the B.C. Airways Ltd. monoplane, the air mail service between Victoria and Vancouver has been well patronized. Citizens of both Victoria and Vancouver, realizing the advantage of quicker communication in their business relations, are ready taking to this more rapid form of mail delivery. During the last four days no less than 5,000 letters have been handled between Victoria and Vancouver, making an average of over 1,000 letters a day. The Victoria-Vancouver air mail service forms the first leg in the transcontinental air mail route from the Pacific. The transcontinental service is being steadily developed westward from the Eastern provinces, and it is believed that it will not be long before there will not be one break in the entire service. The above picture is an enlarged reproduction of the B.C. Airways Ltd. air mail sticker.

SHORE ACRES SCENE OF MOOSE PICNIC

Large Gathering From Sidney, Friday Harbor and Port Angeles Enjoys Outing

SIDNEY, Aug. 6.—The Victoria Loyal Order of Moose Lodge No. 1390 held a very successful picnic on Sunday at Shore Acres, through the kind permission of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Halsey.

The weatherman showed his approval of the occasion by clearing away the clouds, and the day was an ideal one. Several tailcoats and many private cars were used to convey the large gathering, numbering about five hundred, to the grounds where visitors from Sidney, Friday Harbor and Port Angeles were already assembled.

Following lunch, which was served at bountifully spread tables set under the shady trees, a programme of twenty-two sports events was carried out, and so from 11 o'clock a.m. until 7 o'clock p.m. there was not a dull moment. The sports events and contests for all, both young and old, many of which required great skill by the competitors and caused great amusement to the onlookers.

A twenty-six piece band rendered selections at intervals throughout the day, which were greatly appreciated. The candy and ice cream and soft drink stalls were always surrounded by a crowd of eager purchasers.

The afternoon closed with a tug-of-war and softball games, at the conclusion of which three hearty cheers were given to the committee who had worked so hard to make the affair the success it was.

The results of the sports events were as follows:

Girls, under four years—1. Baby Lott; 2. Baby Rollinson; 3. Baby Randall.

Boys, four to six years—1. Laurence; 2. Belton; 3. Ellis.

Boys, six to eight years—1. Heene; 2. Bennon; 3. Randall.

Boys, eight to ten years—1. Ellis; 2. Jorgenson; 3. Belton.

Girls, eight to ten years—1. Robert; 2. Leach; 3. Holland.

Girls, ten to twelve years—1. Laney; 2. Pearce; 3. McIlroy.

Boys, twelve to fourteen years—1. Rowbottom; 2. Storey; 3. Currie.

Girls, twelve to fourteen years—1. Peares; 2. Pratt; 3. Brown.

Single ladies' race—1. Miss Clanton; 2. Miss Beem; 3. Miss Sooley.

Single visiting ladies' race—1. Miss Clanton; 2. Miss Beem; 3. Miss Sooley.

Visiting gent's race—1. Donaldson; 2. H. Clanton; 3. F. Holdridge.

Officers of No. 1390 and Friday Harbor—1. Allan; 2. Monk; 3. Honeychurch.

Ladies' potato race—1. Holland; 2. Allan; 3. Monk.

Married men's race—1. Storey; 2. Allan; 3. Monk.

Ice cream cone race (lady and gent)—1. Honeychurch and Jane; 2. Lidgate and Holdridge.

Egg and spoon race—1. Clanton; 2. Lidgate; 3. Brown.

Ladies' 100-yard contest—1. Mrs. Wetherill; 2. Mrs. Holland.

Men's smoking contest—1. Mr. Pollard.

Backwards and forwards race—1. Lidgate and Holdridge.

The tug-of-war was won by the Friday Harbor team after three heats.

The committee in charge of the day's outing, and who were responsible for its success, were Messrs. W. D. Taylor, A. Dunnett, J. F. Pearce, J. G. Johnstone, J. W. Holland, C. E. Copeland, Dr. C. B. Mess, W. G. Belton, J. E. Ellis, G. Epley, R. H. Lott, T. Lidgate, J. Matthews, J. Storey, G. Allan, S. Honeychurch, J. Leach, with a joint committee from Friday Harbor.

PAYS TRIBUTE TO LATE ARCHBISHOP

Professor Armand, of Nancy School of Psychology, Refers to Notable Telepathic Experiments Here

Tribute to the splendid work of the late Archbishop du Vernet, of Prince Rupert, in the field of psychological research, particularly along the lines of telepathy, was made by Professor Armand, representative of the Nancy School, in the lecture which he gave last evening at the Campbell Building. The reference was introduced in that part of the address which dealt with thought transference, the lecturer recalling the remarkable achievement of the Archbishop of Calcutta not only in communicating telepathically at great distance with his daughter, but in inventing an apparatus whereby it was possible to measure the lengths of the vibration of thought.

"Thought transference, telepathy, is a perfectly natural and easy thing—if you know how to do it," Professor Armand told the big audience which crowded the hall to capacity. The necessary conditions were described, among them being sympathy between the transmitter and the receiver of the message. It was also essential that the receiver should be receptive, passive, relaxed and quiet; only the sender must be positive. This explained why people were more likely to receive messages during sleep, in the form of dreams, than at other times, because then the conscious part of the mind was relaxed. Those who tried the experiment should prearrange the time, so that the recipient would not be busy and preoccupied with other things. Telepathy was much easier between people on the same mental plane. This accounted for simultaneous invention on the part of scientists and others who might not even know each other, even when they lived at great distances apart. It was also explained that the transmission of a mental picture was much easier than the transmission of word pictures. Many so-called savages had remarkable powers of thought transference. Some historic instances of uncanny transmission of news via unlettered natives were given, notably the news of General Gordon's death at Khartoum, known by the natives in Cairo the same day, although there was no telegraphic communication; and the Naital natives' almost immediate knowledge of the relief of Kimberley, corroborated of which was received at Naital by the usual "white man's" routes only three weeks later.

The influence of telepathy in a more direct and personally helpful way was suggested by the lecturer in his reference to the "success societies" of New Zealand and Australia, these being societies organized with the idea of bringing the members together in force to concentrate thought on the relief of any member in distress or trouble. Here lay the germ of a very important idea, that if a helpful idea could have its influence for good, so could a bad idea influence for evil. Every thought, particularly the thought of a group, would eventually translate itself into action. History showed periods of great social unrest. When the broad riots of the forces were taking place in England, Germany, and elsewhere, The Great War offered another example of a disseminated idea of irresistible force.

Something about the subconscious mind and the improvement of the memory, the influence of color vibrations both on the body and mind, the improvement of children by parental suggestion during or just before the child's sleep were dealt with in an interesting way. Special importance was attached to the power of mental science in the curing of stammering, St. Vitus' dance, asthma, dyspepsia, convulsions, functional paralysis, nervous deafness, and certain eye troubles, and after the lecture volunteers were called for self-healing demonstration purposes. Among those who submitted themselves were a woman who had had sciatica for six years, a man suffering from stammering, a woman with arthritis in the hand and arm, who stated, after treatment, that the pain had all gone, and fifteen eye test cases reported improvement.

Professor Armand will give another lecture on mental healing on Tuesday evening at the Conservative Association hall. A class in higher psychology will be held tomorrow night, and a class in mental healing on Friday night.

Conservative Women Arranging Picnic

At a special meeting of the Women's Conservative Association held last evening, Miss Bowron presiding, arrangements were made for selling tombola tickets at the forthcoming Conservative picnic. Anyone wishing tickets may procure them from Mr. Duck or Miss Bowron.

The next regular meeting of the Women's Association, it was announced, will be on September 17.

Knocked Down by Car

COURTESY, Aug. 6.—Knocked down by a car driven by Mr. J. L. Dawley, of the Courtesay Hotel, the little son of Mr. Brooks Tomlinson, of the Wyke Road, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital at Comox on Saturday evening. The accident occurred outside Mr. Heber Cooke's drug store on Union Street, and the victim was taken into the store. Dr. McKee was called and rendered medical assistance and had the little fellow removed to the hospital, where he is resting comfortably. It is thought that no serious harm has been done.

Princess Alexandra Lodge

Lodge Princess Alexandra, Daughters of England, recently held its regular meeting in the S.O.E. Hall. The chief business of the evening was the serving of tea at the Willows Fair, August 20 to 25, were made. A good report of the picnic was read. It was decided that the joint lodges of the Daughters of England invite the Vancouver lodges to pay a fraternal visit, the date to be announced later. During the evening the new D.D.G.P., Mrs. Hatcher, presented Mrs. Harrison, P.D.D.G.P., with the jewel of the order and a piece of silver from the joint lodges. Princess Alexandra and Primrose, and Mrs. Oliver, W.P. of Primrose, presented Mrs. Hatcher, D.D.G.P., with a bouquet. Mrs. Swan, W.P. of Princess Alexandra, presented Mrs. Harrison, P.D.D.G.P., with a bouquet. At the close of the meeting ice cream was served by Messdames Bennett and D. Coldwell.

Holy Trinity, Sooke, W.A.

The sale of work under the auspices of the W.A. of the Holy Trinity Church, held in Sooke Hall on Friday evening, met with success. The various stalls were soon cleared by willing purchasers. The serving of refreshments by Messdames E. I. Muir, R. Snape and E. Jackson, with an impromptu programme of songs by Miss Polly Reid, Messrs E. G. Stacey, B. Waide and Gamble, who also accompanied the singers, helped to pass a pleasant evening. A cake and hand-brothered pillow for a weight guessing contest, in charge of Miss Grace Throup, were won by Miss S. Reid and A. Reid. The fish pond, in charge of Miss Snape, proved popular. Ice cream was served by Mrs. M. Thompson. The net proceeds were over a hundred dollars.

Anniversary Dinner Given at Shawigan

SHAWIGAN, Aug. 6.—On Saturday, the eighth anniversary of its promotion to the highest substantial rank in its regiment, the Royal Irish Fusiliers, Colonel H. H. B. Cunningham entertained a distinguished company to dinner at "Antrim" to celebrate the thirtieth year since receiving his first commission in the British Army. His regiment, one of the few privileged to have a colonel-in-chief, and signally honored by H.M. the King himself holding the appointment, celebrated its centenary last year by being made the corps d'élite of Ireland as a reward for thirty years' service of continuous gallantry on active and foreign service. It has a particular interest for Western Canadians, as the Irish Fusiliers of Canada, whose headquarters are in Vancouver, are allied to it.

The tables were arranged in the form of a T, on the top of which was laid a magnificent gold lace table centre, the decoration being vases containing carnations alternating with candlesticks, the candlelight giving a subdued, but charming effect. On the lower part of the T was laid a similar lace table centre, but in silver.

Tastefully arranged menu cards in folder form were provided for each guest, on the outside of which was printed the colonel's name and regiment, surmounted by the family coat of arms, while inside were the menu and the toasts of the evening.

Amongst those invited were: General and Mrs. McNaughton, Mr. C. H. Dickie, M.P.; Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Pooley, Commandant Maude, R.N., and Mrs. Maude, His Honor Judge Lammiman and Mrs. Lammiman, Mr. and Mrs. G. Cheek, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Angus, Major Knicker (Royal Irish Fusiliers) and Mrs. Knicker, Mr. and Mrs. Fur-longe, Mrs. Wilkinson, (Mill Bay), Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Bolly, Mr. E. Ham (Oak Bay), Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Willett (Duncan), Mr. and Mrs. P. Tooker (Mill Bay), Miss Davidson (Cobble Hill) and Mr. and Mrs. E. O. Sanford (Duncan).

Under the auspices of the Sooke and North Sooke Women's Institute, a benefit tea and miscellaneous shower will be held at Sooke Hall on Wednesday at 3 o'clock for the benefit of the family of Mr. H. MacDonald. Mr. and Mrs. MacDonald, with their five children, were destroyed homeless by a fire which destroyed their home on Tuesday morning of last week. The fact that the children were rescued from the burning building in their night clothing made their case pitiable. The family suffered a similar ordeal in Oregon about four years ago, when their eight-roomed house was burned at an early hour, causing a total loss. All parcels may be addressed to the secretary of the Institute to be forwarded.

CANADIAN GIRLS ARE OLYMPIAD CHAMPIONS

DOMINION'S TEAM WINS HIGH JUMP AND RELAY RACE

Wild Enthusiasm Reigns as Ethel Catherwood Shatters World's Record in Bringing High Jump to Canada—Victory of Relay Team and Great Work of Myrtle Cook Sensational

Men's 1,600-Metre Relay Squad Finishes Third; U.S. Team Victorious

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—The first Olympic women's track and field championship goes to Canada, whose girls captured the last two of five events in record-breaking fashion to beat the United States. Their respective totals were 34 and 28.

The scoring in the women's events was as follows: Canada, 34; United States, 28; Germany, 23; Poland, 10; Sweden, 8; Holland, 7; Japan, 5; France, 3; South Africa, 2; Austria, 1; and Italy, 1.

Canadian girls take equal honors with men from the Dominion in the track and field sections of the ninth Olympiad, which portion of the programme was concluded yesterday, after eight days of intense competition.

The girls' 400 metres relay team, composed of four Toronto girls—Fanny Rosenfeld, Ethel Smith, Jane Bell and Captain Myrtle Cook—won the 400 metres relay final in new world record time of 43.2-5 seconds, with the United States second, Germany third, France fourth, Holland fifth and Italy last.

BREAKS WORLD'S RECORD
Miss Ethel Catherwood, resident of Toronto for the past year and before that time a smiling citizen of Saskatoon, broke the world record to win the women's running high jump with a leap of five feet three inches.

Thus the two victories of Percy Williams, of Vancouver, in the 100 and 200 metres sprints, are balanced by the female contingent's achievement.

Yesterday was an outstanding triumph for Canadian girlhood, for the two events captured by the Dominion girls were the only finals of the day for women.

The men's 1,600 metres relay team, W. A. Wilson, of Montreal; Phil Edwards, of Hamilton; S. E. Glover, of Edmonton, and James Ball, of Winnipeg, ran a great race, but finished third, just snatching that place from the Swedish runners, "Torchy" Feden, of Victoria, B.C.

The third and last men's event, the gruelling marathon, was won by a French-Moroccan, El Quafi, with the leading Canadian, Cliff Bricker, of Galt, in tenth place.

The glory of the last day of the track and field games, as far as Canada was concerned, went to the girls.

CARRIED ON SHOULDERS
Ethel Catherwood was jubilant after her feat. She was lifted to the shoulders of Canadians, athletes and spectators alike, and smilingly received the plaudits of the great crowd. She waved her arms to the cheering watchers and smiled again as the Canadian flag soared to the top of the main Olympic pole in token of her victory. It was the second ascension of the day, the flag having been sent to the top by the relay team earlier.

Miss Catherwood's victory was received with possibly more enthusiasm than any other Canadian win, except that of Percy Williams in the 100 metres last Monday, for she had placed no less than seventeenth in the qualifying events in the morning.

Fraulent Glosif, of Holland, and Miss Mildred Wiley, of the United States, tied for the second place, and in the jump off the Dutch girl gained the second-place honor.

The girls' relay team sped madly to beat the world record they had set up themselves in trials on Saturday. Miss Rosenfeld, a notorious fast breaker, made a false start as the Canadian flag soared to the top of the main Olympic pole, and second fault would bring disqualification.

CAUTIOUS AT START
The second time she was cautious in getting away and trailed her competitors. Ethel Smith took the baton at the end of the quarter and ran a fast 100 metres to reach fourth place before handing over the baton to Jane Bell. Miss Bell also ran an excellent race, and made to mistake in handing the baton to Myrtle Cook at the three-quarter mark.

As on Saturday, Miss Cook displayed a wonderful burst of speed to win over the United States girl by two yards.

The Canadian girls finished in excellent condition and were so exuberant that the cameramen, anxious to get their pictures, could hardly keep them still. Myrtle Cook, in particular, jumped up and down in her joyousness. Miss Cook had been unlucky in her other race, the 100 metres, being disqualified for two false starts, but the victory was all the sweeter to her.

Miss Rosenfeld incidentally deserves special mention. She ran a close second in the women's 100 metres earlier in the week and was fifth in the 100-metre race, running again yesterday to give the girls a "fast start" in the relay.

CANADIANS HOME THIRD
The Canadian men ran a good race in the 1,600-metre relay, but were up against strong teams. The United States men, Germany being second. After the Canadians, Sweden was close fourth.

Wilson got away promptly and was in third place half-way along his 400-metre assignment. He was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to Phil Edwards, who was runner-up.

Edwards was runner-up in the 400-metre race, but was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to S. E. Glover, who was runner-up.

Glover was runner-up in the 400-metre race, but was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to James Ball, who was runner-up.

Ball was runner-up in the 400-metre race, but was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to W. A. Wilson, who was runner-up.

The great sprint of Myrtle Cook in the last dash gave the Maple Leaf side a victory by two yards over the American entry. The win was wildly acclaimed by the other Canadian athletes and was Canada's second great success in the women's events.

Canadian Oarsmen Still In Running at Olympics

Joe Wright Regains Place by Defeating Italian—Canadian Doubles Beaten in Heat, But Will Get Another Chance Today

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—Both the Canadian double team and Joe Wright, Jr., singles sculler, still are in the race for Olympic sculling honors along with the Argos Club eight from Toronto.

The double team of Wright and Guest, Toronto, were beaten by two lengths by Hoeck and Voigt, of Germany, today, but will get another chance to keep in the running tomorrow.

Wright jumped defeated Berasconi, of Italy, and thus kept in the running after a defeat by Straka, of Hungary, on Saturday. Wright's time was 7 minutes 49.2-5 seconds.

The Italian sculler could not keep up the pace set by Wright and apparently became ill. Soon after the half-way mark the Italian was on the verge of collapse.

Wright jumped into the lead, rowing forty strokes to the minute, while the Italian hit a forty-four clip, but the strong sweep of the Canadian gave him a lead of a full length. With a quarter of the distance covered, the Italian sprinted gamely, but Wright had set him a long thirty-stroke, and at the half-way mark had increased his lead to three lengths.

ITALIAN CRACKS
A hundred yards past the half-way mark, Berasconi cracked, on the verge of collapse. He stopped rowing entirely and then tried to take up his task again, but was completely rowed out and Wright paddled home, finishing the distance in 7 minutes 49.2-5 seconds. Wright was in splendid shape at the finish.

Wright's victory today insures him of further competition toward the single sculls title.

The United States double sculler crew of Charles McIlwaine and Paul Costello defeated the Austrian crew of Loert and Flesser in the second elimination round of the Olympic sculling events today. The United States pair, who were defeated in the first round, were again victorious, this time by a margin of two lengths.

HOWIE MORENZ HAS CLOSE CALL

Valuable Canadian Hockey Centre Almost Killed When Lightning Strikes Golf Stick

HOWIE MORENZ

MONTREAL, Aug. 6.—Fifty thousand dollars' worth of hockey talent came close to being snuffed out Saturday. Howie Morenz, brilliant centre of Canadians, for whom $50,000 has been refused, is an ardent golfer, and when the terrific electric storm swept this district Saturday, he insisted on playing along at Forest Hills course.

Fortunately, Morenz was playing with a wooden club, for as he was swinging it, there was a sharp crackle, and a flash, the club was wrenched from his hands, the steel twisted and the wood split. By the force of the electric current, which was running through the air, Morenz got a jolt and so did his caddy.

MEDALLION TO MARK VICTORIES MAY BE STRUCK
AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—In view of the outstanding achievements of the men and girls on the Canadian Olympic team, the Canadian Olympic committee is considering the suggestion of striking a medallion with engravings of Percy Williams, of Vancouver, and Ethel Catherwood, Toronto, formerly of Saskatoon, on one side with the maple leaf on the other side.

Richards Surprised at Class of Net Players
American Professional Comments on Quality of Tennis Material in Europe—Says Austin, of England, Wonderfully Improved

BY VINCENT RICHARDS
American Professional Tennis Champion
Special to The Colonist and North American Newspaper Alliance
(Copyright, 1928, by North American Newspaper Alliance)

LONDON, Aug. 6.—It is surprising for one to come to Europe and find so many high class tennis players in every country. Men like Baron de Morpurgo, Gaslini, Stefane, Boussier, Landry, Kosuluh, and a host of others are not heard of much in America, but one has a much higher regard for them after seeing and playing with them over here.

Boussier and Landry are two younger players France is holding in reserve for future Davis Cup play. Both play good forcing tennis and both will improve in the next few years.

Australia has a find in young Jack Crawford, but it will be some years yet before he reaches the top. He has all the strokes needed for championship play, but his tournament temperament has to be improved. Patterson and Hawkes are still playing championship doubles, although Patterson is suffering from a pulled tendon in his right arm. England's hope for the future rests on the shoulders of young Austin, who has improved at least fifty per cent since I was in England in 1926.

There are many things a foreign player has to contend with when he first arrives here. Perhaps the most important of all is the changing of balls in every country. In England, the foreign players have to use the Glaxo brand, in France and Germany and most of the central countries of Europe, the Dunlop ball predominates. These two factors will have much to do with America turning to the clay courts.

So far as the surface of the court is concerned, a slow clay court is not so vastly different from grass. So, after all, it will make little or no difference to the players what surface is used in the various countries.

COURTS VARY GREATLY
Then the courts of most countries are entirely different. England has the heavy turf, used there for years.

Diminutive Algerian Wins Great Olympic Marathon for France

El Quafi Springs Great Surprise—Cliff Bricker, of Canada, Finishes Tenth—Canadian Relay Team Disqualified for Dropping Baton

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—What the classic marathon victory apparently within his grasp, Jole Ray, tired and muscle-sore little Algerian favorite, altered almost at sight of the finish yesterday afternoon, while the undersized Algerian Arab, El Quafi, running under the colors of France, galloped off with the crowning prize of the 1928 Olympic track and field championship.

Cliff Bricker, of Galt, Ont., Canada's main hope, finished tenth, while Johnny Miles, of Sydney, C.B., was sixteenth.

El Quafi, twenty-nine-year-old former dispatch bearer in the French Moroccan army, now in the more peaceful pursuit of an auto-motive factory worker in Paris, came from nowhere in the last few miles of the long grind to spring a sensational upset. The dark-skinned little runner dashed into the stadium to the cheers of 40,000 persons and half-circled the track to beat his nearest rival, Miguel Plaza, twenty-six-year-old Chilean, another dark horse, by 150 metres.

Ray, jogging slowly around the oval and near the point of exhaustion, finished fifth, behind B. Maitinen, of Finland, and Kanematsu Yamada, of Japan, who had alternated with Ray in setting the pace for fully two-thirds of the grind over Dutch roads and cobblestones.

El Quafi, in one of the biggest marathon surprises in history, not only ran the pick of the world's long distance runners into the ground, but ran the second fastest Olympic marathon in the world, the French flag up the victory pole for the first time since Teato won at Paris in 1900.

JUST SHORT OF RECORD
Over a flat but rough course El Quafi covered the 26 miles 385 yards in 2:32:57, less than 32 seconds short of the record Olympic time set in 1920 at Antwerp by Hannes Kolehmainen, of Finland.

Saving for the finish after running most of the way well back in the big field of some seventy-five runners, El Quafi, given no consideration by the experts in advance, carried the Chilean along with him. The runner, given no consideration by the experts in advance, carried the Chilean along with him.

El Quafi first decided to sprint, catching Plaza napping a bit, enabled the Arab to gain and hold the lead over the Chilean.

Plaza came through the portal beside the marathon tower before El Quafi had finished, and the thunderous applause for the winner turned to the second place man, whose friends leaped from the stands to wrap him in a Chilean flag and hoist him to their shoulders.

RAY FATES RAPIDLY
American hopes, which burned high throughout most of the race, as Ray always was within the first five and appeared likely to fulfill his greatest ambition, faded along with Jole in the last three miles. Except at the start, when the veterans, Whitley Michelson, of Stamford, Conn., and Clarence de Mar, of Montreal, Mass., stayed briefly with the leaders, Ray was the only American contender in the group the long chase.

Nicholson finished ninth, and de Mar, finding the flat route unsuited to his jorking pace, twenty-seventh. Ray lost because his running machinery, despite the sensational promise shown at home, isn't strong enough to withstand the gruelling marathon grind consistently. With the muscles in his legs tightening up, he had no spurt left. Yamada, the Japanese, too, was tired, and Maitinen, the Finnish favorite, came along to beat both in the final mile.

The marathon crowned the final day of track and field events for men and women. Three world records were shattered and another equalled on the last day.

AMERICANS WIN RELAY
The Americans swept the men's relays, beating strong German rivals twice as the Yankee 400 metres relay runners tied the world's mark of 41 seconds flat and the 1,600 metres quartette lowered the record from 3:16 to 3:14.1-4. The 400 metres team consisted of Frank Wykoff, Jimmy Quinn, Charley Borah and Henry Russell, American representatives in the 1,600 metres relay were George Baird, Fred Alderman, Bud Spencer and Ray Barbuti.

Both American men's relay teams won in clean-cut fashion. The 400-metre victory was gained by a two-yard margin as Helmut Koenig, Teuton anchor man, failed in a desperate bid to overtake the flying Russell. A sensational third 400 metres by Spencer in 47.4-5 seconds and a fine finish by Barbuti with word the clean-cut thrills of the last two Germans, Harry Bors and Herman Engelhard, in the 1,600 metres.

In the 1,600 metres, Ball, of Winnipeg, anchor man, turned in a fine race to make up the deficit. He was in fourth place down the stretch and running strongly and near the top he put on his now famous finish spurt to take third place from the Swedish runner. He was unable to catch either the Germans or Americans.

HESTER RUNS POORLY
Apparently poor running by George Hester, of Hamilton, the third man in the Canadian 400 metres relay team, was responsible for the elimination of the Canadians in this event. John Fitzpatrick, made a false start but finally got away fast, almost beating the gun again, and Adams, the second man, kept well up, being in fourth place when Hester took over.

Hester lost ground badly in his 100 metres, and, perhaps flurried, dropped the baton as he was handing it to Percy Williams, the latter waiting impatiently as he saw himself being handicapped. He picked up the baton and broke away fast, but seeing the hopelessness of the race, gave up. The matter was settled by the judges, however, who disqualified the Canadians for dropping the baton, which must be carried continually.

There was some feeling after the race that Harry Warren, of Vancouver, a Rhodes student at Oxford, should have been given Hester's place on the relay.

OFF TO LONDON
The Canadian men are going to London today in an effort to gain further honors in the British Empire games.

The girls will celebrate their victories with a shopping expedition in Paris, where their activities will be limited only to the extent of their purses and the opinion of Alexandrine Gibb, their manager.

The girls, in any event, are anxious to return to Canada as soon as possible. This was made evident in the buzz of conversation at their hotel room last evening.

Women's high jump—Won by Ethel Catherwood, Canada, 1.59 metres (5 feet 3 inches), new world record. C. A. Glosif, of Holland, and Mildred Wiley, United States, tied for second at 1.56 metres (5 feet 1-1/2 inches). Fraulent Glosif winning the jump-off for second place.

Marathon—Won by El Quafi, France, time 2:32:57; second, Miguel Plaza, Chile, 2:33:23; third, M. B. Maitinen, Finland, 2:35:05; fourth, Kanematsu Yamada, Japan, 2:35:29; fifth, Jole Ray, United States, 2:36:04; sixth, Seeschira Thurda, Japan, 2:36:20.

Men's 400 metres relay final—Won by United States (Frank Wykoff, Jimmy Quinn, Charley Borah and Henry Russell); Germany, second; Great Britain, third; France, fourth; Switzerland, fifth; Canada dropped the baton at the start of the last relay and was disqualified. Time 41 seconds. Equals world record.

Men's 1,600 metres relay, final—Won by United States (George Baird, Fred Alderman, Bud Spencer and Ray Barbuti); Germany, second; third, Canada; fourth, Sweden; fifth, Great Britain; sixth, France. Time 3:15.1-5. New world's record.

Women's 400-metre relay final—Won by Canada (Fanny Rosenfeld, Ethel Smith, Florence Bell and Myrtle Cook); Germany, second; third, Germany; fourth, France; fifth, Holland; sixth, Italy. Time, 48.2-5 seconds. New world's record.

GERMANS FIRST WIN
Germany's first Olympic team championship was made in the Greco-Roman wrestling when they took first place, two points ahead, totalling twelve points. Finland, second ten. Hungary and Sweden were tied for third place with eight points, while Estonia had six and Egypt five.

DOMINION'S CYCLE TEAM FARES BADLY

Crack Riders From Canada Have Only One More Chance for Olympic Honors—In 125-Mile Race

PURSUIT SIDE IS BEATEN IN SEMIS

BY W. H. INGRAM
Canadian Press Staff Correspondent.

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—Canadian cyclists at the Olympic games have not fared so well today. They have been eliminated in four events, and only one event remains on the programme, the road sprint, to be run, in which four Canadians are entered. These are Joseph Laporte and Tourville, of Montreal; Lew Elder, of Toronto, and "Torchy" Feden, of Victoria, B.C.

Lew Elder entered the time trials at 1,000 metres last evening and was unplaced.

James Davies, of Vancouver, was eliminated in the sprint trials on Saturday night by the German entrant.

In the 4,000-metre pursuit race, the Canadians qualified for the semi-final by placing second to Germany by twenty yards in the first preliminary.

In the semi-final, however, the French team eliminated the Canadian team composed of Feden, Elder, Davies and Andrew Houting, the latter a Toronto man.

A large crowd of Dutch witnessed the Olympic cycling events, as this flag having been sent to the top by the relay team earlier.

Miss Catherwood's victory was received with possibly more enthusiasm than any other Canadian win, except that of Percy Williams in the 100 metres last Monday, for she had placed no less than seventeenth in the qualifying events in the morning.

Fraulent Glosif, of Holland, and Miss Mildred Wiley, of the United States, tied for the second place, and in the jump off the Dutch girl gained the second-place honor.

The girls' relay team sped madly to beat the world record they had set up themselves in trials on Saturday. Miss Rosenfeld, a notorious fast breaker, made a false start as the Canadian flag soared to the top of the main Olympic pole, and second fault would bring disqualification.

CAUTIONS AT START
The second time she was cautious in getting away and trailed her competitors. Ethel Smith took the baton at the end of the quarter and ran a fast 100 metres to reach fourth place before handing over the baton to Jane Bell. Miss Bell also ran an excellent race, and made to mistake in handing the baton to Myrtle Cook at the three-quarter mark.

As on Saturday, Miss Cook displayed a wonderful burst of speed to win over the United States girl by two yards.

The Canadian girls finished in excellent condition and were so exuberant that the cameramen, anxious to get their pictures, could hardly keep them still. Myrtle Cook, in particular, jumped up and down in her joyousness. Miss Cook had been unlucky in her other race, the 100 metres, being disqualified for two false starts, but the victory was all the sweeter to her.

Miss Rosenfeld incidentally deserves special mention. She ran a close second in the women's 100 metres earlier in the week and was fifth in the 100-metre race, running again yesterday to give the girls a "fast start" in the relay.

CANADIANS HOME THIRD
The Canadian men ran a good race in the 1,600-metre relay, but were up against strong teams. The United States men, Germany being second. After the Canadians, Sweden was close fourth.

Wilson got away promptly and was in third place half-way along his 400-metre assignment. He was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to Phil Edwards, who was runner-up.

Edwards was runner-up in the 400-metre race, but was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to S. E. Glover, who was runner-up.

Glover was runner-up in the 400-metre race, but was fourth behind the leader when he handed the baton to James Ball, who was runner-up.

Trumbull Would Like To See Many Changes In Olympic Athletics

Noted Writer Offers Suggestions for Bettering of World Meet—Wishes to See More Friendship Among Competitors

By WALTER TRUMBULL
(Copyright by North American Newspaper Alliance)

When the United States Olympic squad left for Amsterdam it was the greatest team of young athletes I ever saw gathered together. Except for the steeplechase and the longer runs, there was scarcely an event in which the competitors from Maine to California might not be expected to equal or better a world's record.

The team left New York as a collection of supermen, but it appears to have landed in a somewhat water-logged condition. In field events the United States did splendidly. The home folk are proud of John Kuck, Edward Hamm, John Carr, Robert King and Clarence Houser. But the almost utter failure in the track events, where the United States has been wont to shine, was little less than lamentable.

There are no alibis. The track, the weather, the climate, the starters and the judges were the same for all. Other athletes traveled just as far as those from the country of George Washington—a fine athlete himself—but they also traveled faster. Ray Barbuto, of Syracuse University, was the only track man who did his stuff in individual competition.

The fact that the boys lost is unimportant. The Olympic Games are supposed to be sport for sport's sake. And on the days the races were run men of the other countries were faster and deserved victory.

BETTER COMPETITORS
What matters is that the United States expects its track athletes to give their best, and most of them didn't do it. Most of them had run repeatedly in better time than that in which they were beaten. What matters is not that the runners of other nations were faster, but that they proved themselves better competitors.

If the United States runners were overweight, or if they trained too fine or not fine enough, why didn't the coaches know it? If instead of training for sprint and hurdle races they trained for a pie eating contest, why didn't older men in charge point out their mistake?

I have read newspaper articles by coaches and trainers. I have perused long interviews with them, demonstrating how the climate, the weather, the living conditions, the marshes, the canals, the cooks, the starters, the judges, the photographers, the architects, the League of Nations, the World Court, and the Dutch one-eyed Connolly conspired to do the United States team dirt. I should rather have read one brief cable saying: "Wykoff wins easily," or "Hahn victor in record time."

Moreover, it seems to me that there are too many officials at the Olympics. The games were re-established to bring nations closer together and instill a little more sportsmanship into the world. The sight and sound of officials squabbling with other countries and then doing a little private fighting among themselves is not ennobling. Somehow it doesn't seem to fit the supposed spirit of the occasion.

WOULD LIKE CHANGES
In 1932 the Olympics are scheduled for Los Angeles. I should like to see many things changed before that time. I hope that the United States will treat visiting athletes as honored guests, or at least as most friendly rivals. If there isn't pie enough for all, the victors should be served first.

I should like to see all the competing teams housed in the same hotels—if possible in the outskirts of the city where the air is sweet and clean—and I should like to see the officials and trainers assigned to the smaller and inside rooms. I should like to see the athletes of all competing nations use the same dining-hall and the same buses and cars to the same practice fields.

I should like to see practice times assigned for sprinters and distance runners and field men, and to have the boys of all nations work out together. I should like to see every man to the mark at his best, in a combined effort of the coaches of all nations could send him there in that condition. Then let the best man win, and more power to him.

I should like to see more hands extended in friendship and fewer extended for the purpose of shoving somebody on his nose. I should like to see the original intention of

WILLIAMS WILL NOT GET CASH

Vancouver Committee Decides to Offer Scholarship at B.C. University and to Establish Trust Fund

WILL START FAMOUS RUNNER IN BUSINESS

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—Percy Williams, of Vancouver, who last week won the 100 and 200-metre sprints at the Olympic games at Amsterdam, will receive no cash award in recognition of his feat by the citizens of Vancouver and British Columbia. A scheme that was devised by Graham Bruce, vice-principal of the High School of Commerce, which Percy is attending, was adopted at the session today of the special committee.

At a meeting Friday, to pay tribute to the champion, the scheme provided for a scholarship in the University of British Columbia for the lad, provided he desired and wished to attend college, and for the establishment of a memorial fund, which will bear his name. On completion of his university course, Williams will be offered a position secured for him by a committee, the members of which will be his guardians, as far as the fund is concerned.

The fund, the first objective of which has been set at $25,000, will be for the purpose of starting Williams on a career of business ownership, should he so desire. Money drawn from the fund to be raised by public subscription will only be in the nature of a loan and must be paid back into trust at a later date. The fund itself will ultimately be used for the promotion of amateur athletics, particularly track and field.

The record of Jerome D. Travers, who won the United States amateur golf championship four times, is menaced by Bobby Jones. The latter has already held the title three times.

British Win Keeps Salmonbellies Still In Lacrosse Fight

Johns Hopkins University Side, Which Defeated New Westminster in Opener, Goes Down Before Empire Stickhandlers

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, Aug. 6.—The British lacrosse team today defeated the Johns Hopkins University team representing the United States by a score of 7-6, in Olympic play, thereby shattering the hopes of the Baltimore aggregation for undisturbed world championship recognition.

The defeat of the Salmonbellies' lacrosse team of New Westminster, by the Johns Hopkins University team, representing the United States yesterday, does not eliminate the Canadians. Tomorrow they meet Britain in the final game of the series.

Continuous, forcible tactics gained victory by six goals to three for the United States yesterday. The Canadians seemed content to allow the others to set the pace. Jack Woods, inside player for the Canadians, was the outstanding player of the Salmonbellies, scoring all three of his team's goals. The most effective of the United States men were Helfrich, Logan and Wexdorf, though all played a good game.

AMERICANS ON ATTACK
At the face-off the United States carried the attack into the Canadian defence area. Atkinson, of Canada, secured the ball and gained a lot of ground. It was lost to Helfrich, however, who passed to a colleague who scored the first United States goal.

The Americans again traveled to the Canadians' end where the Canadians secured possession and traced down the field to a face-off near the United States goal. Logan, of the United States, received a long pass and carried it back to the Canadian area where the Canadians secured.

H. Wikke secured but lost to Wexdorf. L. Graver, of Canada, mixed it up a little and the ball passed back and forth until a face-off was made behind the Canadian end, when in another mix-up it was carried down the field to the United States goal. From another mix-up in the American end, Vernon unsuccessfully tried a long shot on the United States goal, but Jack Wood finally scored the goal to make the score, United States 2, Canada 1.

The Canadians now continually carried the battle into the enemy's ground but Wexdorf broke away and passed to Lang, who scored the United States third goal. Helfrich soon after bulged the Canadian nets, making the score, United States 4, Canada 1, at the end of the first half.

SWEATERS CONFUSING
During the intermission the Canadian changed into red sweaters, for previously the teams had worn very similar sweaters and there was some confusion. The Canadians had sometimes found themselves passing to the wrong man.

After the whistle Vernon tangled with Lang in the centre of the field. After Vernon bumped Lang, and the United States man took the offensive with bad grace, the teams separated them.

In the second half, when the crowd were occupied with the marathon, Jack Woods scored Canada's remaining goals, but the United States also scored two more, the final count being United States 6, Canada 3.

D. K. McKenzie, manager of the New Westminster team, said that they had no alibi to offer, but others of the Canadians said that the defeat was a bitter pill to swallow, the Dominion being recognized as the home of lacrosse. The John Hopkins University team, however, is admittedly, the strongest team the United States have ever had.

COLWOOD GOLFERS GAIN GOOD LEAD OVER RAINIER SIDE
Colwood golfers piled up a long lead over a team from the Rainier Golf Club, Seattle, on Sunday at Colwood, in the first half of the annual team match for the Langley Cup, the final count being 47½ to 18½ in favor of the local club. The return match will be played in the Sound city next Fall.

Results with the Rainier players named first, follow:

Vancouver to Make Bid for 1936 Olympiad

VANCOUVER, Aug. 6.—As a result of Percy Williams' victories at the Olympic Games this year, a suggestion has been made that Vancouver make a bid for the games in 1936, or failing that, in 1940, and that steps towards securing that end be started immediately.

BARTHELMLESS IN POWERFUL DRAMA

Plays Dual Role in "The Wheel of Chance," Showing at Capitol This Week

The whims of fate, as exemplified by the roulette wheel, provide the theme of "The Wheel of Chance," Richard Barthelmess' new starring vehicle for First National Pictures, which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night. The effect of circumstances and environment upon the twin brothers, separated in childhood by relentless fate, was the idea behind the original story, "Roulette," by Pannier Hurst.

Barthelmess plays the dual role, portraying both twins. One is red-haired and one black. One is denied the guidance of his parents, the other is more fortunate. With great realism and understanding the star enacts the two characters, giving to each the qualities as developed by their individual upbringing. The climactic scene, staged in a courtroom where one brother prosecutes the other for murder without being aware of the relationship, Barthelmess' dramatic heights seldom witnessed on the screen. It is an unforgettable scene, and one that will go down in screen history as a masterpiece of acting.

The stage attractions at the Capitol for this week include John Middleton, concert violinist; Billy and Lenore Hacker, two clever acrobatic dancers; Ted Roy, the singing blacksmith, in song selections, along with the Capitol Concert Orchestra, and Harold Bechtel, the singing M.C., singing "Frinistance."

PLAYHOUSE In contrast to the recent light comedy roles in which he has scored such a success in his last few pictures, Jack Mulhall is to be seen in a dramatic characterization in "The Crystal Cup," the First National picture now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. Mulhall is featured opposite Dorothy Mackall in this picturization of Gertrude Atherton's novel, which was produced by Henry Hobart. Mulhall's recent farcical performances in "The Poor Nut," "Smile, Brother, Smile," and "See You in Jail" have won him widespread recognition as a comedian of great ability.

COLISEUM Jeanne Eagels, famous stage star of "Rain" and other notable plays, can play any role in the world except one. She could never be a soubrette. For there is one thing that Jeanne simply cannot do—she cannot wink. Miss Eagels has mastered every facial expression there is save just this one—and when she tries to wink all she can do is shut her eyes. She's been that way ever since she was a little girl. The famous stage star plays her first screen role opposite John Gilbert in "Man, Woman and Sin," Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's romance of newspaper life, now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. The story is a romance of Washington newspaper life, much of it laid in the national capital, with Gilbert as a reporter and Miss Eagels as the society editor of a newspaper. The cast includes Marc McDermott, Gladys Brockwell, Hayden Stevenson and others, and the play was directed by Monta Bell from his own original.

VARIETY A capacity house at the Variety Theatre last night witnessed the film of the Tunney-Heeney fight. It is certainly an epic picture and held the audience right through. Round by round the story increases in thrills as it builds up to the tenth great round in which Heeney, unsteady and bewildered, is battered to the ropes. If the audience admired the wonderful skill of Tunney, it also warmed to the dogged determination of Heeney, who proved such a worthy opponent and who went down with flying colors to the last. It is the film of a great fight—a man's fight with a great champion defending his title as only he could have done. The tenth and eleventh rounds, containing more fight per foot of film than any picture ever shown, are largely in "slow motion." In addition to this main attraction is a fast moving Reginald Denny comedy, "Fast and Furious," a story dealing with the motor racing speedway.

COLUMBIA In producing Ray-THRENE, the railroad melodrama, "Casey Jones," Producer Trem Carr stopped at nothing to make this picture an outstanding success, so in selecting his cast Ralph Lewis was the logical star for the title role. And what more genial soul for Mrs. Jones than the beloved Kate Price? Educational pictures lent Al St. John to supply the comedy. Jason Robards was given the role of young Casey, with Anne Sheridan playing opposite, while Brooks Benedict was selected for the "heavy." Then to make the Jones family complete, Mr. Carr found the three Kain kids—Violet, Jimmie and Charlie—to portray the three Jones children. Incidentally, this is the first time all three have appeared together in one picture. This array of talent is now showing at the Columbia Theatre.

LORD DUFFERIN IN TORONTO COLLISION

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—A distinguished visitor to Toronto, the Marquis of Dufferin and Ava, and Professor Pelham Edgar, of this city, escaped serious injury Saturday when the car which Professor Edgar was driving collided with a motor driven by William Howard Porter, Hill Road, near Heath Street. Both cars were badly wrecked and Professor Edgar and his passenger were thrown to the lawn of a residence several yards away.

"RAMONA" PROVES SCREEN TRIUMPH

Dolores Del Rio Displays Great Histrionic Skill in Superb Production at Dominion

Brilliant, glamorous, pictorial, scintillant with romantic charm, vibrant with dramatic tenacity, dynamic in its emotional moments, poignant in its bitter tragedy—that is "Ramona," the United Artists photoplay presented last night at the Dominion Theatre.

"Ramona" is a screen triumph. Its continuity, direction, acting, photography and scenic vestment stamp it as one of the finest, most artistic pictures ever produced.

This classic love story by Helen Hunt Jackson has been masterfully directed by Edwin Carewe. The noted director has caught the romantic spirit of early California in the colorful days of the Spanish Dons, and he has faithfully brought to life on the screen the beloved characters of the book.

Dolores Del Rio as "Ramona" is superb. She invests her role with sincerity, deep understanding, poignant feeling and artistic conception.

Running the gamut of human emotions, feeling all the pangs of love, despair and woe, Miss Del Rio plays upon the heart strings of her audience. Her histrionic skill and gift of character delineation and opportunity for full expression in the romantic scenes, and in the deep, fine nuances of pathos and tragedy.

NURSE CAVELL FILM ACCEPTED IN U.S.

Is America more tolerant than Britain? This question, asked in a British country, might be considered somewhat tactless were it not for the fact that Britain has banned one of its own films while America has accepted it and heaped unstinted praise upon it. The film is "Dawn," the story of heroic Edith Cavell, which was placed under official ban in England, but has been shown in music halls. All Canadian provinces with the exception of Saskatchewan have passed it, and this is what a United States paper says of it: "A considerable controversy has been aroused over the showing of the film. Because of the animosity aroused over it, a private screening was made before the Film Bureau, and an expression of that organization was that it was a picture 'without hatred or bitterness toward anyone.' Thus it seems that "Dawn," which is to appear at the Coliseum shortly, has aroused world-wide animosity among certain classes who condemn it unseen, while those who have seen it express the opposite view. In Germany the film has raised howls of protest, yet British newspapers declare that the film deals altogether too kindly with the Germans.

Physical Volume Of Business in Canada Growing

OTTAWA, Aug. 6.—The physical volume of business for Canada during the first six months of the present year was at a higher level than at any period of like duration. The index published by the Bureau of Statistics shows an increase of four per cent in the last six months over the corresponding period of 1927. The value of construction contracts was thirty-four per cent greater, and the monthly average of the mining index was seven per cent greater in the half year under review than in the same period of 1927.

The manufacturing index showed an increase of five per cent, the increased output of steel, automobiles and oils contributing to this result. Revenue car loadings were 51.2 per cent greater.

10½ MILLION

The largest total tire production in Canada

10½ million automobile tires have gone from the Goodyear factories in Canada into the service of the motorists of the world.

By far the largest production of any company in the history of the tire business in Canada.

A result! A means! A responsibility!

The result of year after year success in giving ever-increasing value in mileage, comfort, safety.

The means of giving greater value, because increased volume has made possible lower prices and tire improvements—in short, record low-cost-per-mile.

A responsibility for all time, to deserve such patronage—to deserve the confidence which motorists have placed in the name Goodyear—to continue to give the value which made 10½ million Canadian-built Goodyear Tires a possibility.

The second 10,000,000 Canadian Goodyear Tires are being made. Into them is going Goodyear's greater experience, skill and knowledge. From them motorists will receive greater service than ever before. They are sold by Goodyear Selected Dealers everywhere.

All Goodyear Tires are built of SUPER-TWIST Cords—61% more stretch and life than old-style cords.

B.C. CRICKET ELEVEN TAKES OPENING GAME

Defeat Manitoba by Forty-Two Runs in First Day's Play of Western Canada Tournament

DOMINION BODY MAY BE FORMED

WINNIPEG, Aug. 6.—With ideal weather conditions prevailing, the twelfth annual tournament under the auspices of the Western Canada Cricket Association got under way at Assiniboine Park today. A large crowd of enthusiasts were in attendance.

In spite of the fact that the weather was good, low scoring prevailed and the bowlers held the whip hand throughout the day. Saskatchewan won from Alberta by 22 runs in a game that was by no means indicative of their real merit, very few of the batsmen showing the form they were capable of. Dick Foster, the Saskatchewan captain, was the hero of the game. He made top score in both innings and was responsible for the downfall of the Alberta XI.

British Columbia won from Manitoba by 42 runs. In this game the issue was in doubt for some time, as after the home team had made 92 and the Coast eleven had scored 52 for two wickets, the Manitoba bowlers got in their deadly work and five more wickets fell before the score was passed. Gillespie not only made the highest score but also bowled remarkably well. For British Columbia, Bullen had the phenomenal average of three wickets for three runs, bowling five maidens out of seven overs.

TO FORM DOMINION BODY

Formation of a Dominion Cricket Association was favored at the annual meeting of the Western Canada Cricket Association here to night and immediate negotiations will be entered into with Eastern officials.

A. G. Booth, representing the Alberta Cricket Association, was appointed a representative for the Western clubs in any negotiations he may be able to arrange with the East.

Tonight, Hon. George R. Langley, of Regina, was elected president of the Western association.

The vice presidents are: Manitoba, J. A. Powell; Saskatchewan, W. C. Miller; Alberta, J. A. E. Kell; British Columbia, F. A. Sparks.

The 1929 tournament will be held in Saskatchewan, probably at Regina, though final decision has not been made.

MAJOR WALLIS IS NAMED PRESIDENT

Well Known Rugby Figure Elected Head of 18th Canadian Scottish Rugby—Other Officers

Major P. R. M. Wallis was elected president of the sixteenth Canadian Scottish Rugby team (senior) at a meeting held in the Armories last night. Followers of the oval ball game will look back on the excellent performance of the militia men, who in their first season, which was last year, carried off the championship of Vancouver Island. The Scottish is making an early start in an effort to make an even better showing than last season.

Other officers elected were as follows: Captain, Lieutenant L. Henderson; vice-captain, Lieutenant Campbell; manager and coach, Lieutenant R. D. Travis, and secretary, Cyril Wightman.

A number of good men have been lined up for the coming season, and any players wishing to wear the colors of the regiment are advised to get in touch with President Wallis.

SOCCER CHAMPS WELCOMED HOME

New Westminster Royals Escorted Through Streets on Return With Dominion Soccer Title

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., Aug. 6.—Crowds of admirers thronged the Canadian Pacific Railway depot to welcome the victorious Royals soccer team which returned with Dominion championship honors to night.

The stalwarts were driven around the town in an automobile at the head of a parade which concluded at Albert Crescent, where Mayor A. Wells Gray tendered an official welcome.

The band of the Army and Navy Veterans' Association provided music.

Cups and trophies won by the team during the present season made an imposing display on a gaily decorated truck.

Following the addresses given at Albert Crescent the players and officials were entertained at a smoking concert in the Army and Navy Veterans' clubrooms. A banquet, at which the Royals will be the guests of honor, will be held Tuesday night.

Many Veterans Will Compete in Vancouver Island's Tennis Championship in Up-Island Town

DUNCAN, Aug. 6.—Much interest is being shown in the forthcoming annual open tournament of the Duncan Lawn Tennis Club, to be held at the club courts August 15 to 18. Already a strong aggregation from outside points have announced their intention of participating, including Marjorie Leeming, Hope Leeming and Mrs. Leeming, Mary Campbell, the British Columbia singles champion, Mona Miller, Peggy Jackson, D. M. Gordon, "Bud" Hocking, Noel Radford, Steve Jones, and B. Schwengers, all of Victoria. A contingent from Seattle includes "Windy" Langley, Dave Ketchum, and Wing, Vancouver representative.

Will include Harold McLean, D. S. Montgomery, and Bull, Mrs. Speed, Mrs. Charlesworth, and Dermott Croft, who come over from Salt Spring Island.

The events include the championship of Vancouver Island in the ladies singles and men's singles, and carry with them handsome challenge cups. Miss Kikelly, last year's winner in the ladies' singles, is abroad and will not be here to defend her title, but Gerald Cunningham, the winner of the men's singles last year, will be on hand. Open events will also be held in men's doubles, ladies' doubles and mixed doubles.

Noel R. Staples, the secretary, has all preparations well in hand. The courts are in excellent shape, and it is hoped that the tournament will surpass all former efforts.

CALEDONIAN GAMES SET FOR SATURDAY AT HASTINGS PARK

From North, South, East and West trains and ships will bring the Mc Gregors and MacDonalds, the Camerons and Campbells to Vancouver on Saturday, August 11, for the Caledonian Games. The city will be alive with color as over one hundred dancers make their way to Hastings Park. The skill of the pipes and the waltz of the kilts will be in evidence as pipers from Winnipeg, Victoria and Vancouver compete in the great band contest for the J. W. Stewart Trophy.

Sturdy, stalwart men from the Land o' Heather and Cakes will show their prowess in the weight events, while men of all nations will race on the track in an endeavor to emulate "Percy the Great."

The followers of the ancient games of quoting and horseshoe pitching will have an opportunity to show their skill. Much amusement should be created in the boys' scooter race. That it has not been held has not been supplanted by its rival the auto will be shown by the speed artists of the B.C. Wheelmen's Association.

A great reunion will be held in the evening in front of the grandstand, when the Scottish choir and the Scottish orchestra will play and sing the songs of Auld Scotia. They will be assisted by Robert Meikle, the famous Scottish baritone. Miss Mary Isdale's pupils will give an exhibition of country dances.

Entry forms are pouring into the secretary's office from all over the Pacific Coast. These must be sent to the Secretary of the St. Andrew's and Caledonian Society, 404 Homer Street, Vancouver, not later than Wednesday, August 8.

ARMADALE WINS RETURN MATCH FROM HILLCREST

The "B" team of the Armadale Lawn Tennis Club played their return match with a similar aggregation from the Hillcrest Club over the week-end. The visitors evidently found the grass surface difficult to cope with after hard court play as the home team came out on the long end of a score (of games) of 108 to 72 this was practically an exact reversal of the match played on the Hillcrest Club's courts where the Armadale "B" team were somewhat severely handled. However a number of events proved close and interesting and the westerner was in cheerful frame of mind.

Each event consisted of fifteen games. Scores, the Armadale players being named first in each instance, follows:

LADIES' DOUBLES

Mrs. Gann and Miss Dearden won from Mrs. Monckton and Mrs. Janowski, 11-4.

New York Stock Letter

(Compiled by Benson, Brown & Co., Ltd.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—A general upswing took place in the stock market today following active buying of representative industrial stocks in the first hour. Shares benefiting from favorable effects of hot weather were in good demand, and there were advances in such issues as South Porto Rico Sugar, Various dry goods stocks were featured in the early dealings. Such specialties as Radio, Warner Bros. Pictures, National Biscuit, Montgomery Ward, Loose Wiles, John Manville, and later the twin market leaders, Steel common and General Motors, rallied on active short covering.

Coppers were prominent under the leadership of Kennecott. Copper, which advanced to the highest price in its history. An upward revision in Kennecott's dividend rate is expected at a meeting scheduled later in the month. Oil was featured of strength in recognition of crude oil and gasoline price advances of late. The profit taking that was attracted by today's bulge was easily digested.

The California crude oil production averaged 645,500 barrels daily in the week ended August 4, an increase of 1,500 daily over the preceding week. Also announced was made of increase in gas price of one cent a gallon throughout its territory by Standard Oil of Indiana. The buying of oil shares is going on in the market, and this development of the list may be more prominent in the rallies. The present level of industrial shares is again affording fresh opportunities for distribution, and would reduce long holdings on the bulge.

A message has been received by R. F. Castle & Company from the Golconda property. It says the concentrator is in operation at the Golconda mills. Assay shows thirty-four ounces of silver; sixty-three per cent lead; zinc concentrate, fifty-eight per cent. Recovery: Ninety-seven per cent lead, eighty-five per cent zinc, establishing a remarkable record for milling.

"LADY BETTY"

By JOHN L. CARTER

Jimmy's first impulse was to charge upon the blackguard and bang his head against the oaken door, but here again the counsels of wisdom carried weight. Secretly, he was in the bathroom once more, he watched the sleek Velasq. He realized that Lady Betty would be considerably alarmed, but he felt that, so long as Velasq did not enter, it was best to remain in hiding. After making an attempt to force the door, Velasq turned away and descended the stairs. Whereupon Jimmy came out of his hiding place and gently inserted the key.

"Hello Betty!" he said. "Velasq has gone away, is Jimmy."

And then he turned the key, pushed that great door wide, slipped through, withdrew the key and closed the door.

Lady Betty was barely a yard away. Her look of mixed terror and relief told him to the heart.

"Thank heaven!" she cried, throwing her arms out to him.

Jimmy was only human; he would have taken her into his arms. But Lady Betty suddenly remembered, and moved a little away.

"It is good to see you, Jimmy!"

"Oh, I can't bear to let you go," she cried.

"On my return I will give two knocks and say 'Open,' you understand?"

Lady Betty thought she did, but she was afraid to let him go.

"Let me come too," she pleaded.

"Suppose they discover you while you are away, and attack you? I couldn't bear it if you didn't come back. Why not both of us wait till father comes tonight? Or else both of us try to get out together now. They could not kill us. I shouldn't be a bit afraid of dying with you."

Jimmy shook his head.

"But they wouldn't kill you, Betty," he said gravely.

Betty gasped in sudden comprehension.

"You mean—Velasq?"

Jimmy nodded.

"Let me manage things in my own way, little one," he said gently.

"It will come all right."

"Oh, I hope so! I hope so!" she cried.

Then she took one of his hands in both hers and pressed it for a brief moment.

"De back, Jimmy!" she cried. "Do come back!"

And then he was gone.

He was fairly familiar with this floor, and was soon going through Madame Bovier's dresses, but they were all too striking and showy, and he decided that instead of concealing, they would rather draw attention to Lady Betty.

Madame Bovier's dresses simply smacked of Madame Bovier; they were distinctive and were designed to draw attention to the wearer.

And now Jimmy hurried up the stairs to the top floor, where he found a bedroom—evidently one of the servant's rooms—and very quickly selected a blue straw alpaca.

And since his conscience charged him with theft, he felt forty francs very plainly to be seen on the bed.

Then he descended warily. The bonnet he had put in his tool-bag, while the cloak found a hiding place in the bosom of his overalls.

He reached Lady Betty's room without meeting a soul. Then he gave those two knocks and whispered "Open." Without a further word, without a moment's delay, the door swung open, and Lady Betty dragged him inside and closed the door.

"Oh, it is good to see you!" she cried. "It has seemed ages!"

Then he produced the bonnet.

"You are never going to make me wear that!" she protested, putting very prettily. Nevertheless she put the bonnet on and looked approvingly at herself in the over-mantel mirror.

"How does it suit me?" she said archly, holding her head tilted on one side. She held broad black ribbons in her fingers, and certainly she made a very charming picture.

Jimmy glanced around. He had been busy unbuttoning himself of the cloak. That sudden glimpse of Lady Betty stirred him amazingly, and he took a step towards her.

Then he pulled up with an angry frown.

"Don't Betty! Don't play with fire!"

Lady Betty knew what he meant. He might have actually told her that her provoking attitude made him long to take her dear face between his palms and kiss her pouting red lips. The knowledge made her cheeks flood with red, and she turned away from him, full of shame and humiliation.

"Let me put the cloak on," she said quietly. "We had better go."

Then she put the wrap about her, and carefully buttoned it.

"That's splendid!" cried Jimmy gaily. He wanted her not to take things so much to heart, though she had certainly needed a reminder.

"Now we will go," he said. "They will think you are one of the servants—a new one engaged for Madame's return. And I—well, I am still the plumber!"

"What a clever ruse!" she exclaimed admiringly. But she had always been like that over Jimmy's exploits. Whatever he did was heroic, magnificent; even though it might have been nothing but climbing a tree, she had always worshipped him.

"We can slip out now, without much risk," he said. "Come along."

"No you don't!" came a voice from the neighbourhood of the door. Jimmy turned to find Count Velasq standing there, a revolver in each hand.

"Why didn't you lock the door after letting him in?" jeered Velasq. "Now what are you going to do?" Jimmy took a step forward.

"We are going to leave this place at once," he said.

"Not while I have a cartridge in these little toys," replied Velasq. "If only for poor Madame Bovier's sake. To think of that trusting little woman coming back to find her husband has run off with another woman! Really I am surprised at you both!"

"We can out-wit him if we take care," Jimmy whispered to her, for he had suddenly hit upon a plan. "Is that your bedroom through that door?"

She nodded.

"Then dash through and unlock the door that leads out to the corridor, while I delay him as much as I can. Wait till I say the word."

"Look here, I won't have this whispering," threatened Velasq. Jimmy had now left Lady Betty and was working his way to the part of the room that was farthest away from the bedroom. It was his object to out-flank Velasq, for with himself in one room and Lady Betty in the other, Velasq could not possibly watch both.

"Not another step!" cried Velasq at last suspecting that there might be method in Jimmy's madness.

"Run Betty!" cried Jimmy, and before Velasq could move she had run through the door. And now Velasq sprang into action, though it was very clear that the situation perplexed him. Jimmy had felt certain that he would not fire on Lady Betty, if only because he had chosen her as the object of his odious infatuation, but he was by no means sanguine as regards himself.

In his perplexity Velasq ran to the door that joined the two rooms. He dare not leave Jimmy, yet he could not stand calmly there and allow Lady Betty to escape. And so he decided upon shooting Jimmy, and coolly levelled one of the revolvers. Jimmy was not altogether surprised. Instantly he turned the heavy oaken table on end, and took cover behind it. He then reached out and took up a heavy foot-stool, and waited. Velasq aimed and fired. And then, when the smoke had cleared, Jimmy hurried the foot-stool and caught Velasq a stunning blow on the temple. Jimmy was upon him in a moment, and having nothing better to hand, he trusted Velasq's wrists with his own braces. "It's all right, Betty!" he cried. "I've got him safe."

"Oh Jimmy! I thought the beast had killed you!" cried Lady Betty. Jimmy laughed outright to see South is the dealer. What is the proper bidding and play?

In the next issue Mr. Whitehead will explain the salient points in the bidding and play of the above hand. Fill out your own chart and compare it with his method.

These hands must not be bid or played "Double Dummy," i.e., as though all four hands were exposed.

Note: In recording the Auction, or the Play, use "S" for Spades, "H" for Hearts, "D" for Diamonds, and "C" for Clubs. Use "NT" for No Trump, "DBL" for Double, "REBL" for Reblow.

The Current Bidding and Play

Trick 1. West's opening lead of the King of Spades was the conventional opening from his hand. Whether he continued this suit will depend upon whether East plays an encouraging or discouraging card.

East's play of the nine of Spades, encouraging West to continue with Spades, prompted Declarer to hold off. Had East played a discouraging card, Declarer would have played the Ace, to avoid a possible shift to Diamonds at this stage of play.

Trick 2. Declarer sees clearly that if he draws down all his trumps he can make but eight tricks, losing four Clubs and a Spade. Therefore, to go game on the hand, he must either trump two Clubs, or, if West holds the Ace, make the King and ruff one Club.

Trick 3. To defend against Declarer's obvious attempt to employ Dummy's trumps in ruffing Clubs, East leads a trump.

Trick 4. East leads another trump, thus foiling Declarer's purpose.

Tricks 5 to 11. Declarer, foiled in his attempt to trump out two losing Clubs, sees that his only chance for game lies in a possible double squeeze. Therefore he leads out his trumps.

Trick 11. Declarer's lead of his last trump effects the double squeeze. If West discards his Queen of Spades, the six in Dummy is good; and if East discards his Queen of Clubs, Declarer's six is good. Both West and East must therefore unguard their Diamond honors, enabling Declarer to make both the Ace and Jack in Dummy.

ANSWER TO SUNDAY'S PUZZLE

the rage that this remark brought to Velasq's face.

"Pans me that certain tie. We must make our host as comfortable as possible," said Jimmy proceeding to tussle Velasq's ankles.

"Now we are ready, I think," he said at last. "If you don't mind, my dear Count, we will borrow one of these revolvers."

He coolly looked through Velasq's pockets until he discovered a small cardboard box, from which he took a cartridge to replace the spent one.

"We are going to lock both doors," he said. "But we will leave the key on the other side. No doubt Madame Bovier will discover you when she returns."

SPECIAL AIR MAIL FLIGHT ARRANGED

Will Commemorate First National Show and Exhibition's Golden Jubilee

By authority of the Postmaster-General, a special air mail flight will be undertaken on August 24, from Windsor, Canada, to the Canadian National Exhibition grounds at Toronto, Canada. This is a special air mail flight to commemorate not only the golden jubilee of the Canadian National Exhibition, but also the first annual National Aircraft Show. The flight will be via London, Ontario, and Hamilton, Ontario.

All mail offered and prepaid at the rate of five cents for the first ounce and ten cents for each succeeding ounce will be conveyed on this flight.

All covers should bear in the top left-hand corner, the words "Via Special Air Mail Flight Windsor to Toronto." Or "London to Toronto," depending on the position to which covers are sent to be included in the flight.

The postmasters at Windsor, London, Ontario, and Hamilton will be furnished each with a different special cachet which will be impressed on all properly prepaid covers reaching them for inclusion on the flight. However, this special cachet will be used only on such covers as are sent to the different postmasters bearing Canadian postage stamps. All covers so prepaid and marked will be date-stamped by the receiving postmaster, i.e., at Windsor, London or Hamilton, and backstamped at Toronto in commemoration of the occasion.

Anyone interested in first flight

covers and anxious to secure the special cachets, is advised to prepare covers as far in advance of the day of the flight as possible, and forward them under cover to the postmaster at the point at which it is desired they will enter the flight. All covers handed in this manner must bear the necessary Canadian postage stamps or should be accompanied by a money order for the correct amount of postage.

All other covers bearing the correct amount of postage in United States stamps reaching any of the above stopping points on the flight in the ordinary mails from points in the United States in time to connect with it, will also be included, but will not bear the special cachet.

All covers conveyed on this flight addressed to points beyond Toronto will be placed in the ordinary mail at Toronto and will go forward to the addressees in the ordinary way.

FAST THINKING SAVES FLYERS

Veteran of Air Has Narrow Escape
When Plane Is Caught in Down-Current

By DON BROWN
(Copyright, 1928, by The North American Newspaper Alliance)

NEWARK - ELIZABETH AIR-PORT, Aug. 6.—"Bill" Hughes, one of our instructors and a war-time buddy of "Duke" Schiller in the Royal Air Force, wouldn't go up today. The wind was in the wrong direction, he said.

Bill has had 3,200 hours in the air. He has a silver plate in his skull and his present jawbone is a masterpiece of creative surgery.
One day in 1918 he fell 5,000 feet and almost got the plane straightened out before he hit.

West of our field there is a big cemetery, some railroad tracks, high-tension wires and a factory.
The cemetery is on a hill.

The wind was blowing from the west, over the big factory and down the cemetery hill toward us. At the edge of the field it made a strong down draught, which tends to pull down a rising plane.

"You can get her over that down-draught four times out of five," Bill said. "But the fifth time, it'll be just too bad. Anyhow, I'd rather die natural than be scared to death."

A new instructor pilot, a former captain in the Royal Air Force, came out to the field today. He tried the take-off alone over the bad hill. In the down-draught, the plane dropped only a little, so he decided he could make it with a student.

The field manager looked at me inquiringly. I nodded.

"All right, hop in," he said.

BAD TAKE-OFF

With my added weight, we rolled along bumpily with the motor roaring for the second take-off. We lifted after a few hundred feet and the plane rose slowly, much too slowly. It seemed as though the wings were made of feather beds, and our speed was nothing to brag about. We reached the edge of the field. The plane was still so low I wondered if we would clear the trees at the other end of the cemetery.

Then I quit wondering. I knew we wouldn't. The motor missed and spluttered dimly. The plane dropped sideways toward the railroad tracks to the left of the cemetery.

I let go of the auxiliary controls
so as not to interfere with the pilot.
He cut off the motor. I knew he expected to crash. If you crash with the motor running, the spark is likely to ignite the gasoline tank as it bursts and turns you into a torch.
I put my arms up across my forehead to get all the protection I could.

SPLIT-SECOND THINKING

The plane swung heavily over away from the railroad tracks and down toward the cemetery. It straightened out a bit, and with a narrow clearing ahead of us, the pilot suddenly decided to try again and "gave her the gun." It was split-second thinking. The motor roared once more and we lifted a little.

We were headed straight for another group of trees down the side of the railroad track. The plane was still sluggish, but it lifted. We cleared the trees by a few feet and climbed.

High over the field, I took hold of my set of the dual controls again and we flew about for half an hour, then down to a smooth landing.
The small crowd rushed up to greet us. They were in a hot argument as to whether we had cut off the motor to "take the crack-up" or if it had stopped a moment itself.

Bill said his theory was that when we hesitated up there and slipped sideways, we were just trying to decide between the two sides of the cemetery.

"I cut the engine to take the crack-up when I saw we couldn't lift any more," the captain said.
"But those railroad tracks looked so hard, I thought I'd try again. I crashed in some railroad tracks once and they were so hard."

Tomorrow our new speaking tube sets will be here and while I am flying, I'll get a chance to hear what the instructor thinks about it.

(In his next article, Don Brown tells about "over-control.")

"Laddie, keep your temper," said an old Scotsman to his fiery son.
"Never quarrel with an angry person, especially a woman."

"Mind ye, a soft answer pays best.
It's commanded—and, forbye, it makes them far madder than anything else you could say."

These Women!

By J. H. Strickland

How a man hates to have a woman always fussing around him, straightening this, adjusting that!
But when the "fusser" is the chosen one, what can he do but submit?
